School-Girl Crush Fades?

Robert L. Riggs, chief of the Washington Bureau for the Louisville Courier Journal, who is nighly respected as a calm and rational reporter, said in a speech at Missouri University that:

"The nation's newspaper editors are recovering from their 'school girl crush' on President Eisenhower and are about to become their old, examining, critical selves once more.

In a recent and somewhat petulant editorial, a publisher who had supported the Eisenhower candidacy said there were signs that:

"The nation's press is ceasing to be house organs of the Republican party and is again becoming a critical daily press."

Both are in a sense correct. Yet, from this viewpoint the more accurate one would be that the nation still retains much of its crush on Eisenhower. It did buy rather heavily of the Eisenhower administration and much of it is yet "house-organ-like" in attitude.

But there is an increasing disenchantment on the part of the nation's press with Attorney General Herbert Brownell, and with various others of the official as well as the "shadow cabinet."

Examination

The Old Guard, which fought Eisenhower to the last ditch at the Chicago convention, was disciplined by the late Senator Robert A. Taft. So long as he lived the Old Guard stood hitched. It was not always happy. But it stood. It no longer is under control. It glowers and it whispers. It accuses and it denies. It looks about with anger-ridden, frustrated eyes, for an exit, or a candidate.

There is another group, also no longer bemused, which tries lamely to explain why things are not going to their liking, because, they say, hidden deep in the departments are "New Dealers" and maybe, even, socialists, who somehow thwart the cabinet heads and directors. This, of course, is an insult to the intelligence of the Republican administrators, and its implausibility is obvious. Those who use it no longer have that school-girl crush on President Eisenhower, but they are not quite willing to make the break and go over to the Old Guard.

The Republicans of Senator William Knowland's Asiatic convictions clash with those of Secretary Dulles' ideas. This being a political year the former have left the Secretary almost no room in which to maneuver at Geneva.

All this and many more things are true.

There is a substantial element of disenchantment with the Republicans—if not with the President himself.

Fortune

Yet, candor compels the dispassionate observer to note that the change in administrations was a great stroke of fortune for the country—and the Democrats.

The Republicans, by their interparty fight and bitter struggle for party power, have done their leader considerable harm. Only the enormous prestige of the man in the White House has kept his faction of the party from being submerged.

Consider what would have been the lot of Adlai Stevenson had he won, and faced a Democratic party divided and angry (four Southern states having gone Republican): He would have been set upon by the Old Guard Republicans, who now glower and growl at their own President, who brought them back to power after almost 20 years in the wilderness. They would have gone for Stevenson fang and claw. So would the malcontents of his own party.

There have been periods when President Eisenhower was unable to get his own policies and program moving. Consider what would have been the fate of a Stevenson agenda! There would have been times when the processes of government would have been at a standstill. The change was sharp and stark.

The country is learning a great and necessary lesson. To be sure, it has not yet learned it. But it is doing so.

It is learning there are great issues and problems.

They were not of Roosevelt's making, nor were they Truman's. They were not wiped out by the GOP victory. Like Banquo's ghost they return to the table. They are the products of great revolutions and shifts of power. They will require the best of all of us.

Cut in TV Studied To Rush Probe

May End by 1970, McCarthy Says

By CLAYTON KNOWLES

New York Times News Service Special to The Atlanta Constitution

WASHINGTON, May 2—A reduction in television coverage is being considered as a means for speeding Senate hearings into the dispute between Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy and the Army.

The prospect appeared to be tonight that, if other expedients fail, this course might win favor with the Senate permanent subcommittee on investigations. Members, regardless of party, are dismayed at the slow progress being made. They began exploring ways and means to step up the pace last Friday.

STILL ON STAND

With hearings entering the eighth day tomorrow Army Secretary Stevens is still on the stand. He is the only principal to be heard under oath.

McCarthy has been heard only as an unsworn cross-examiner. There is no indication at this point, however remote, as to when the Wisconsin Republican might take the stand.

The curtailment or elimination of television coverage will be proposed formally to the subcommittee for discussion at its next executive session, tentatively scheduled for tomorrow afternoon.

AGREEMENT

Even before the proposal came up, there was substantial agreement among subcommittee members that it was a step that should be considered seriously. Up to this point, the subcommittee has weighed chiefly the effect of restricting the examination of witnesses or lengthening the daily sessions.

"I don't know whether I would vote to cut TV coverage," said Sen. Charles E. Potter (R-Mich), "but the only thing that I can say is that, if hearings were not televised, they would be expedited materially."

Sen. Henry C. Dworshak (R-Idaho) also thought a cutback might help "if only by discourag-

Prison Game Called After 19 Get Out

ATMORE, Ala., May 2 (AP)—A prison baseball game was broken up today when 19 convicts cut their way to freedom through a wire fence at Atmore State Prison. Four were still at large tonight and one guard has been fired and three others suspended.

Fifteen convicts, all Negroes, were rounded up in groups of threes and fours during the morning and afternoon as guards and state patrolmen tracked them down with bloodhounds on the prison reservation.

SLEEPING GUARD

Warden S. W. Hixon said the 19 prisoners cut through the wire fence almost directly under a tower guard who was sleeping as the ball game between Kilby Prison and Atmore was played.

State Prison Director J. M. McCullough said Henry Sawyer admitted that he was asleep and was fired immediately. Three other guards were suspended, McCullough said, because they "could have stopped it if they had been alert."

NOT DANGEROUS

None of the four convicts still free are believed "especially dangerous," McCullough added.

The three guards who have been suspended were apparently so engrossed in the ball game that they did not see the 19 men slip through the fence.

Kilby was leading 3-2 in the fourth inning when the escape halted the game.

It was the second break at Atmore in recent months. On Feb. 4 nine prisoners tunneled under a building and escaped but all were recaptured within about two weeks.

MET STAR ARRIVES FOR ATLANTA SEASON

OPERA OPENS TONIGHT

Met's London Here To Star as 'Giovanni'

By LEE FUHRMAN

George London, 33-year-old, six-foot-two bass baritone—who can go way down low with the vocal chords and who can also raise a 160-pound weight high above his head—arrived here Sunday night as the Metropolitan Opera Association returned to open its Atlanta season.

The husky and handsome singer, who was met at the Atlanta airport by Mrs. Robert W. Schwab Jr., an Atlanta friend, disclosed he keeps in good physical condition by exercising with the weight-lifting apparatus.

CAGE PLAYER

"Keeping in good health is important to a singer," said London, a native of Montreal, Canada where, in his school days, he played center on basketball teams and indulged in the great Canadian sport, ice hockey.

"I'm still enthusiastic about ice hockey," he said. "I was a string bean in my basketball days."

London, looking more like a former college football star than the man who only a month ago brought bravos in his first Metropolitan appearance as Mephistopheles in "Faust," will sing the title role in "Don Giovanni" at 8 p.m. Monday at the Fox Theater.

RAGGED SCORE

When he stepped off the plane, he held a dog-eared copy of the "Don Giovanni" score, and revealed it was given to him years ago by his first voice teacher, Dr. Hugo Strelitzer, of Los Angeles.

"'Don Giovanni' is one of my favorite roles," he said. "I sang it first in German, in Vienna in 1951. It gives a singer great opportunity for singing and acting. My favorite role is 'Boris Godunof,' which is a role made famous by the late Feodor Chaliapin."

London said he made his professional debut in August 1941 in a Hollywood Bowl presentation of "La Traviata," playing the minor role of the doctor.

London will be supported in "Don Giovanni" by Margaret Harshaw, Eleanor Steber, Roberta Peters, Lubomir Vichegonov, Cesare Valletti, Fernando Corena and Lorenzo Alvary.

Eugene Conley will be featured in the title role of "Faust" Tuesday afternoon. Lily Pons will sing the title role in Tuesday night's presentation of "Lucia." Wednesday's production will be "La Forza Del Destino."

HIS LUCKY DAY

Boy Yanks A $50 Bill Out of Bay

SAN DIEGO, Calif., May 2 (AP)—The fish story which George Allen Weaver, 9, can tell today is one he had a hard time believing himself.

From 8 a.m. to noon yesterday he didn't do so well; his mother, Mrs. Maxine Weaver noting that when he came home for lunch he had only one small fish.

He went back with his 10-foot fly rod and started casting again in San Diego Bay from a beach alongside a pier used by sports fishing boats.

He hoped for something maybe as big as a sand shark.

"I thought it was a $1 bill," he said, "but when I saw the figure $50 on it I decided it was play money." But it wasn't. A man nearby told him it looked like real money. That turned out to be true.

"I sure was lucky," said George. And his luck held out when he got home. His mother didn't scold him for getting his pants wet.

U.S. Confers With Allies In Pacific

Discuss Mounting Indochina Crisis

By EDDY GILMORE

GENEVA, May 2 (AP)—The United States conferred privately today with two of her principal partners in the Pacific—Australia and New Zealand—to discuss the threatening situation in Indochina.

The foreign ministers of these three allies also talked about speeding along the American proposal for a Far Eastern security pact to build up defenses against further Communist expansion in Asia.

Today's meeting, called by U.S. Secretary of State Dulles, was the principal development during the weekend recess of the main Geneva conference on Korea and Indochina.

FLYING TO ITALY

Dulles asked Australia's Foreign Minister Richard G. Casey and New Zealand's Foreign Minister T. Clifton Webb to meet with him less than 24 hours before the American diplomat was due to leave Switzerland to meet Italian Prime Minister Mario Scelba in Milan.

Dulles called the meeting—technically known as the Anzus Council—under Section 3, which reads:

"The parties will consult together when, in the opinion of any of them, the territorial interests, political independence, or security of any of the parties is threatened in the Pacific."

Casey said after the meeting that Indochina was the most important matter they talked about.

FRESH INFORMATION

Marietta Youth Slain In Car on Peachtree

By BILL DIEHL

A 16-year-old Marietta youth was shot to death on a downtown Atlanta street Saturday night and detectives Sunday began a citywide search for the occupants of two cars believed to have been witnesses to the shooting.

The youth was killed in an open convertible occupied by three other persons, Dets. M. W. Blackwell, Mike Johnson and Sgt. Louis Hause said.

The victim was identified as George Davis, a truck driver, of Cherokee street, Marietta. He was dead on arrival at Grady Hospital at 11:30 p.m. Saturday night.

DIFFER ON LOCATION

Mystery surrounded the shooting since witnesses' accounts of the incident conflicted.

John Thomas Pruitt, 21, of 124 Henry St., Marietta, driver of the convertible, reported the youth was shot on Peachtree street a few feet from Harris street, within sight of the Capital City Club. The two other occupants of the car said the shooting occurred at Spring and Harris streets.

Pruitt accompanied police Sunday on a tour of the route followed before and immediately after the shooting.

He told police he and Davis left Marietta at about 7:30 p.m. Saturday, stopped to pick up Robert H. Drane, 23, of Marietta, and a friend, Doris Delaney, 20, of Smyrna.

TRIED TO GET DATES

He said the quartet drove to a Ponce de Leon rooming house to try and get dates, failed and then went to the vicinity of the Greyhound bus station where they visited several taverns.

Pruitt told police all four had

Musial Slams 5 Homers for 1-Day Record

ST. LOUIS, May 2 (AP)—Stan Musial, the St. Louis Cardinals' great outfielder, today smashed five home runs in a double-header against the New York Giants to set a major league record.

It was an achievement which eluded such home run kings of the past as Babe Ruth, Lou Gehrig, Hank Greenberg, Jimmy Fox and Joe DiMaggio.

Five players have hit five home runs in two games on consecutive days, but no one before today ever packaged that many in a single afternoon. The old home run record for a double-header was four. Six players shared this feat.

Musial hit three home runs in the first game, won by the Cardinals 10-6, and two in the second game, which went to the Giants 9-7.

The 33-year-old outfielder from Donora, Pa., six times the leading hitter of the National League and three ties its most valuable player, had a total of 21 bases and nine runs batted in. (Details in Sports Section.)

2 Arabs Slain In Border Duel

TEL AVIV, May 2—(INS)—An Israeli Army spokesman said today that two Arabs were killed and one wounded in a clash with Israeli troops along the tense Palestine demarcation line.

The spokesman said the incident occurred Friday when Arabs took up positions near the Faluja-Beersheba highway to observe Israeli army traffic.

Little Hope Held Out for Defenders

By LOUIS GUILBART

HANOI, May 2 (AP)—Waves of howling Communist shock troops drove into four of Dien Bien Phu's five main clusters of forts today and then tried to cut the crumbling French bastion in half.

The "human sea" of Reds exploded a showdown offensive to climax the 51 days of siege. They seized and held three of a score of strong points making up the five hedgehog clusters of forts and took a fourth only to yield a part of it to furiously counterattacking French Union forces.

CRACK FORT

The initial impact of the onslaught cracked into three clusters of the central fortress and an isolated outpost three miles to the south. Foreign Legionnaries drove them from half of the outpost.

The footholds gave the Reds firing command of all Dien Bien Phu, the high command reported. From their new positions they could rake the low lying garrison with direct machine gun and rifle fire.

Army sources said the Red siege army also clamped a giant pincers on the bastion, wedging in from east and west. They admitted that if the enemy succeeded, the islands of resistance could be mopped up at leisure.

RED SURGE

The French defenders threw out streams of automatic weapons fire as Red troops surged within 20 yards of the French ramparts in many sectors.

French headquarters said tonight the exchange of artillery fire was limited to the fighting around the southern stronghold named "Isabelle" where the Communists had succeeded in gaining a toehold.

Neither side could use heavy guns for fear of hitting its own men in the battle for the main fortress.

The French high command said the plight of the garrison reeling under the heaviest blows of the war in Indochina was "very grave." A spokesman said the chances were four out of five that this battle would be decisive—meaning that Dien Bien Phu would fall.

VOWS FIGHT

Brig. Gen. Christian De Castries radioed headquarters here that his 11,000 defenders would fight to the last man against the 40,000 Communists.

The "human sea" of Reds in green and black quilted uniforms hit Dien Bien Phu from all sides about 8:30 p.m. Saturday. By 2 a.m. today spearheads had cracked the French lines before

2 Give Lives Saving Bridges From Reds

HANOI, Indochina, May 2 (AP)—Two French soldiers were killed today in preventing a key bridge on the Hanoi-Haiphong highway from being blown up by the Communist-led Vietminh.

A Vietminh soldier drove an explosives-laden truck onto a bridge at Laike, 32 miles east of Hanoi. He set the truck on fire and fled.

Two French soldiers from a nearby defense post drove the truck off the bridge, saving it from destruction. The truck then exploded, killing both men.

Lady Wrestler Tosses Cupid Out of Ring for Third Time

BOMBAY, India, May 2 (AP)—Hundreds in Baroda watched today as Hamida Banu, a woman wrestler, beat Baba Pahelwan, a male matman, in her third bout to decide who should be her husband.

The heavyweights clashed with the promise by the woman to marry him if he got the better of her and an understanding by Pahelwan to retire from the wrestling arena if he went down before her.

The bout lasted one minute, 34 seconds, when the woman won a fall and the referee declared Pahelwan out of Hamida's wedding range. Pahelwan immediately announced he had had his last match.

He was the third wrestler to undertake the strange wooing of Hamida who since February has downed two other men wrestlers, Khadag Singh, a Sikh, and another Hindu from Calcutta.

Nehru Demands Fail at Asia Meet, Indochina Hands-Off Plan Defeated

By ROBERT TRUMBULL

New York Times News Service, Special to The Atlanta Constitution

COLOMBO, Ceylon, May 2—Tense deliberations at the South Asian premiers' conference, which ended after midnight this morning, appeared to observers here to indicate a healthy independence of views among the smaller countries of the region. These, with the possible exception of Pakistan, had been thought to lie under the political domination of India, the colossus of the area.

But India's prime minister, Jawaharlal Nehru, despite frequent bursts of temper and table-pounding, failed to get his way on two vital points. These concerned Indochina and communism.

The participants in the four-day discussions here and at Kandy declared that Nehru had come here in apparent confidence that his personal six-point plan for an Indochina settlement would be "rubber-stamped" by the four other Asian leaders from Pakistan, Burma, Indonesia and Ceylon. He was quickly disillusioned and finally, after long and sometimes heated argument, had to submit to a greatly watered-down version of his detailed formula.

COMPROMISE

Prime Minister Nehru's other special interest appeared to lie in a determination that the south Asian states should avoid offending the Communist powers by condemning international Communist expansionism.

In the end, he had to accept a compromise statement in which the machinations of "Communist, anti-Communist or other agencies" were equally warned off.

Nehru was supported in his stand only by Premier Ali Sastroamidjojo of Indonesia. It was not that either prime minister is pro-Communist. The Indonesian prime minister had to remember that the Communist party holds the balance of power in his precarious government at Jakarta, while Nehru was concerned principally with his neutralist position between the East and West.

Premier Mohammed Ali of Pakistan, Sir John Kotelawala of Ceylon, and U. Nu of Burma were so determined to write an anti-Communist clause into the conference communique that it appeared at one point, according to observers, that if their demands were not met there would be no communique at all but merely a statement of individual policies.

KASHMIR LEERY

Mohammed Ali of Pakistan led the opposition to Nehru and stood his ground firmly under a verbal hazing. According to accounts from inside the conference, it finally became clear to Nehru that Mohammed Ali would not accept his demand for non-intervention of outside powers in Indochina because the same principle might later be applied to Pakistan's quarrel with India over Kashmir.

Jayewardene suggested a compromise wording that dropped "nonintervention" from the proposed Indochina formula in favor of a vague plea that Communist China, the United Kingdom, the United States and Russia take the "steps necessary to prevent a recurrence or resumption of hostilities."

It was understood tonight that the three commonwealth governments—India, Pakistan and Ceylon—will forward the agreed Indochina proposal to British Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden. This, it was said, will be their reply to his message of last week asking their views for the Geneva conference.

Uncle's Bosun's Chair Ride to Yacht Amazes Queen's Gaping Children

ABOARD THE BRITANNIA, May 2 (AP)—Prince Charles and Princess Anne watched in wonder today as their great-uncle, Admiral Lord Louis Mountbatten, swung aboard the royal yacht Britannia in a bosun's chair.

Mountbatten came aboard for lunch with Queen Elizabeth and the Duke of Edinburgh after he led his Mediterranean fleet in a full-dress review past the royal yacht.

$800 Income Tax Exemption Urged by Harvard Economist

WASHINGTON, May 2 (AP)—Prof. Alvin H. Hansen, widely known Harvard political economist, says an $800 personal income tax exemption would only equal in purchasing power the $500 exemption in effect in 1944.

Sen. Douglas (D-Ill) said today he has forwarded a statement of Hansen's views to the Senate Finance Committee for study in connection with its consideration of a general tax revision bill now before it.

Hansen urges an increase in the income tax exemption and recommends elimination from the measure of a provision which would cut taxation on income from dividends.

OPPOSING VIEW

An opposing view came from the Committee on Federal Tax Policy, a private group headed by former Undersecretary of the Treasury Roswell Magill and financed partly by the Alfred P. Sloan Foundation.

That group called for a balanced budget as the first step, if necessary by adding a manufacturers' sales tax on everything except food and medicine, and said that when income taxes can be cut, this should be done by lowering rates rather than increasing exemptions.

Hansen said a $200 increase in the exemption—raising it to the $800 level advocated by Sen. George (D-Ga) and others — is "realistic and justifiable" because of the rise in living costs during the past decade. He added:

"If $500 was a reasonable personal exemption in 1944, when we needed a very broad income tax base to finance the war, then the present-day equivalent in real terms, namely $800, must be regarded as fair and reasonable."

BOOST IN BUYING

The proposed cut in taxes on dividends, he said, would discriminate grossly against those receiving wages and salaries and is not needed to encourage investment. The present need is not so much for new plants and industries as for increasing consumption of goods now being produced, he contended.

Hansen's statement contains ammunition for Democrats in the fight some of them are planning to make on the big tax bill in the committee and when it reaches the floor, possibly later this month.

Roosevelt Gets No Aid --Mitchell

Confirms Plan To Quit Post

WASHINGTON, May 2 (INS)—Democratic National Chairman Stephen Mitchell bluntly declared tonight he will refuse to support James Roosevelt even if the son of the late president wins the party nomination for Congress in California.

Mitchell re-emphasized his opposition to Roosevelt, who has become embroiled in a divorce court controversy in the midst of his campaign for the 26th California district House seat.

He also confirmed that he plans to step out as partly chairman before the end of th year.

The party leader, appearing on NBC's televised "Meet the Press" program, was asked if he would support Roosevelt if the latter won the party's nomination in the primary. Mitchell flatly replied: "No."

He also said he would continue to advocate that the national committee contribute no funds on Roosevelt's behalf.

Mitchell hit the Eisenhower Administration for what he termed "appeasement and weakness" toward Sen. McCarthy, and said the current hearings on the McCarthy-Army row are "lessening public confidence in the Republican party and the Eisenhower Administration."

Mitchell also bitterly criticized the administration for its handling of the Indochina issue. Asked what Democratic policy would be if they had control of Congress, Mitchell said:

"I'm sure of one thing. They would be in favor of having one policy instead of four or five. . . .

"Also, I hope they never would send our Secretary of State to his own funeral as we did last month at Geneva. We sent him there with a popgun and then shot the ground out from under him with statements by four or five spokesmen, including Vice President Nixon."

Viet Nam Justice: Pro-Communist Is Parachuted Into Red Territory

SAIGON, Indochina, May 2 (AP)—Vietnamese military authorities have punished a high official convicted of pro-Communist activities by parachuting him into Red-controlled territory, it was announced today.

Col. Nguyyen Vy, commander of Viet Nam troops along the Annam coast, said he ordered the punishment during the weekend. He said he would get rid of all officials suspected of pro-Communist sympathies in this way.

The parachuted official was identified only as chairman of the central Viet Nam provincial council. According to the colonel, he had to be pushed from the plane by eight Vietnamese who flew along to witness the "aerial dismissal."

4 Billion by 1984 May Lower Standards

By WILLIAM N. OATIS

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y., May 2 (AP)—United Nations experts said tonight the world's population may hit almost four billion in the next 30 years—and might lower living standards.

The U. N. Department of Social Affairs made the guess in a statement issued with publication of a 416-page book, "The Determinants and Consequents of Population Trends."

BIRTHS AND DEATHS

"The world's population, now about 2½ billion," the statement said, "is increasing through the excess of births over deaths by about 30 million annually. If present tendencies continue, the rate of growth may rise higher in the future, and within the next 30 years the population may approach the four billion mark."

The book concluded that "the danger of world population reaching the maximum that could be supported by the earth's resources seems remote." It explained:

"All except the most pessimistic estimates of the amounts of land and other sources of food which could be brought into use, and of the possible increases in agricultural yields, imply that it would be technically possible to feed a very much larger population than the world now holds.

MUST MEED NEEDS

"Studies of the sources of energy and essential raw materials likewise imply that, with prudence in the use and conservation of these resources and ingenuity in devising substitutes for those in shortest supply, they could be made to meet the needs of a growing population for a long time to come."

But, it went on, because of "ignorance, greed, strife, superstition and blind tradition," the production increases that are likely "are much smaller than those which are technically possible."

3 SUGGESTIONS

"It is, therefore, easily possible," the book concluded, "that the means of producing the necessities of life will not be increased as rapidly as population grows, and that the level of living of the world's peoples will be depressed as their numbers increase."

The book noted that writers disagreed on the desirability of birth control as a means to hold down the increase in population.

But it listed three sources by which, it said, "the world's ability to support a growing population on a rising level of living would be improved." They were:

1. "The easing of restrictions on international trade and migration."

2. "The joining of nations in larger economic if not political units."

3. "The intensification of international cooperation, particularly in the provision of capital to countries where it is sorely needed for economic development."

Merchandising Experts To Tackle Farm Surplus

New York Times News Service, Special to The Atlanta Constitution

WASHINGTON, May 2—The administration is prepared to take unorthodox steps to dispose of government-held stocks of surplus food and fiber.

It will create soon the machinery for disposal of the billions of dollars' worth of surplus farm products under the direction of an appointee with experience in merchandising programs.

He will have wide latitude in pushing disposal of the surplus commodities with emphasis on foreign trade.

UNDER BENSON

The new disposal machinery will be established within the Department of Agriculture directly under Secretary Benson. The unit will include experts in the merchandising of various products and will work closely with the Departments of Commerce and State.

President Eisenhower apparently has accepted the suggestions of his new adviser on the disposal problem, Clarence Francis, former chairman of General Foods Corp., that a full-scale merchandising program is essential at this time.

INTEGRAL PART

An active merchandising program is regarded by administration leaders as an integral part of the administration's effort to adjust farm production and prevent a buildup of new surpluses. The President's farm program includes a flexible price support system for major farm commodities.

The bipartisan farm bloc in Congress seeks to scuttle the flexible system and retain the present high, rigid supports which the administration blames for the surpluses now in federal storage. The government investment in farm commodities totals $6,250,000,000.

The merchandising effort to move surpluses at competitive world market prices will be geared to private trading.

Car Kills Two Children Walking at Side of Road

Mother, 3rd Youngster Injured; Driver Seized 28 Miles Away

Two children were killed and their mother was injured by an automobile Sunday near Homerville and the driver was jailed on drunken driving charges, the State Patrol reported. Three other traffic fatalities were reported in Georgia over the weekend.

The State Patrol said Mrs. Annie Dean Jones, 32, her daughter, Gloria Ann Jones, 5, and son, Willie Lewis Jones, 3, Negroes of Homerville, were struck while walking beside a road.

They charged him with driving while drunk and leaving the scene of an accident, and turned him over to Clinch County Sheriff Jesse Steedley who jailed the prisoner at Homerville.

ARRESTED

The troopers reported Barfield was arrested by Ware County Deputy Sheriff Robert Lee 28 miles from the scene of the accident after the patrol had broadcast a description of the death car.

Lunsford and Cornelius said J. S. McDonald of Rt. 1, Pearson, told them he witnessed the accident and tried to stop the car as it left the scene.

He said the car ran off the pavement on U.S. Highway 84 a mile west of Homerville and struck the mother and children. Another child, whose name was not reported, was injured and one of its feet will have to be amputated, the patrol said.

A Camp Stewart soldier listed as Pfc. Carl R. Kimble of Laurel Fork, Va., was killed early Sunday when the car he was driving ran off Highway 80 near Brooklet and struck a concrete abutment.

3 ESCAPE INJURY

Three other soldiers in the car were uninjured. They said they were asleep and didn't know what had happened.

Will Manuel Phillips, 43, Negro, of Calhoun, was killed in a traffic accident near Cartersville Sunday.

The State Patrol said Phillips was driving a car that ran off a road and turned over several times six miles north of Cartersville.

A Negro woman, listed as Minnie Price, 40, of Toccoa, died Friday night as a result of injuries received in a wreck a mile west of Eastanollee. The accident occurred on the Liberty Hill road.

CARS COLLIDE

Ten persons were injured in a spectacular two-car collision on Pumpkin Vine Bridge, State Highway 6, four miles north of Dallas about 6 p.m. Sunday, Paulding County Sheriff Troy T. Carroll reported.

Sheriff Carroll said all six persons riding in a car driven by James Peterson, 30, of Rt. 1, Austell, were injured. Most seriously injured were: Arthur McBride, 42, fractured leg and arm; Jane McBride, 5, broken pelvis; Judy McBride, internal injuries, and Mrs. James Peterson, chest injuries, according to records.

Identity of the four occupants of the other car was not immediately learned. Carroll said the four, three soldiers and a woman, were believed to have been seriously injured.

CO-ED HURT

A University of Georgia student was injured Sunday night when the car in which she was a passenger struck a mule about five miles north of Wrightsville on State Highway 15.

The student, Frances Lane, 21, of Cartersville, was admitted to Rollins Sanitarium in Sandersville with neck injuries and lacerations of the shoulder and right hand, Trooper J. J. Cawthorn said.

The trooper said Miss Lane was one of three students returning to the university in a car driven by Walter Watson Meeks, 50, of Atlanta.

several drinks before returning to the car. With Davis on the front seat and the Delaney girl and Drane on the back, Pruitt said he drove to Harris street, crossed Spring street and drove another block to Peachtree where they saw a convertible stalled in the center lane on Harris street.

Pruitt said they pulled up beside the car and asked the driver, a girl, if she wanted a push. He said the car was occupied by two girls in the front seat and two men in the back.

DECLINED OFFER

The girls declined the offer of a push and then an argument started between one of the men in the stalled car and Drane. Davis finally told Pruitt to "get out of here." Pruitt said he turned left into Peachtree, drove a few feet and heard a shot.

Pruitt said Davis groaned: "I'm hit!" and slumped forward. Pruitt said he drove the car down Peachtree to Forsyth, down Forsyth to Luckie, down Luckie to Techwood and then around the corner and up Cain street to the bus station where he was stopped by Det. George Shorrell. Pruitt explained he was looking for a policeman."

POWDER BURNS

Dr. Herman Jones, director of the state crime laboratory reported Sunday that the bullet was fired from about "three or four feet away." He said there were heavy powder burns on the victim's shirt.

At the time of the shooting, Davis was seated in right hand front seat of the car opposite the driver. Since he was shot in the left side, Supt. of Dets. I. G. Cowan pointed out that it would have been virtually impossible for Davis to have been shot without Pruitt being hit first.

Later, Pruitt told police that Davis had been kneeling in the front seat facing the rear of the car when the shot was fired which killed him. Pruitt said Drane had continued to argue with the two men in the stalled car and Davis had turned to quiet him. In that position it would have been possible for Davis to have been shot by someone outside and to the right of the death car, officers said.

Pruitt told detectives that he had forgotten that Davis had turned in the seat. Earlier all three of the occupants of the car had said that Davis was facing forward when he was shot, according to the police reports.

SEARCH FOR OTHER CAR

Police, meanwhile, began a search for the "stalled car," a dark-colored 1949 Buick convertible. They said one of the men in the back seat was medium height and had blonde hair.

Detectives were also seeking a black Ford automobile which passed the stalled car a few moments before the shooting. They said there were two youths in the Ford.

Linder To Announce Political Aim Monday

Commissioner of Agriculture Tom Linder, a potential candidate for governor and the United States Senate for a number of years, will announce Monday whether he will seek the governorship this year.

Rumors have been rocking back and forth that Linder will and won't run for governor. Speculation Sunday night was that he will offer for renomination as Commissioner of Agriculture.

A number of candidates reportedly are ready to jump into the race for Commissioner of Agriculture if Linder does move toward the governorship.

They include Clarke Gaines, secretary, State Department of Commerce; Garland Byrd, director, Georgia Citizens Council; Charlie Duncan, chairman, State Milk Control Board, and Tom Breedlove, who headed the Soil Conservation set-up in Georgia for many years.

Breedlove and Duncan may run even if Linder seeks re-election. Harold Morris of Douglasville already has announced his candidacy.

Linder has had agents studying the field for a number of weeks to assess his chances in the gubernatorial race.

The field at present stands with Rep. Charlie Gowen, Former Acting Gov. M. E. Thompson, House Speaker Fred Hand, and Former Sol. Gen. Ben Garland as the announced candidates. Lt.-Gov Marvin Griffin has announced he will be a candidate, but says he is not an "announced" candidate.

Gowen will speak to the Athens Exchange Club at 1 p.m. Monday.

Remarkable Fellow, This Private Schine

As disgusting as the whole thing has become, the McCarthy-Army hearings should not be discontinued until the whole matter is aired—even though the Republicans would like to end it immediately and most of the country feels the same way.

As damaging to the country's prestige and as destructive of armed forces morale as the affair is proving, the revelations ultimately will be in the public good.

They show a power-intoxicated senator determined to force his will over the nation's Army and its civilian chiefs. They show an executive agency that went to great lengths to appease him. They show an entire government preoccupied with the case of a 26-year-old Army private who didn't want to be a private, or at least whose "friends" didn't want him to be one.

The Army private, David Schine, must be an extraordinary fellow. While undergoing basic training, he managed remarkably well.

He escaped KP duty, wore special uniforms, hired fellow GIs to keep his rifle clean, wouldn't police his own quarters, had 15 leaves of absence in eight weeks of basic training, patronized officers, informed his company commander that he was at Fort Dix to "modernize and streamline the Army," rode in the cabs of trucks while others were packed in "cattle-like," obtained passes for Thanksgiving, Christmas and New Year's and called a girl as much as four times daily while on duty.

As the hearing unfolds, the immediate reaction of most people is one of supreme disgust. Never was such a fuss made in history over an Army private.

The facts do show, however, the extraordinary power achieved by one man through bullying and terrorizing all who dared oppose him. The damage done to this country by McCarthy is incalculable. His fellow senators must be shamed and chagrined that they have done nothing to check his mad ambition.

Nor is the damage confined to the internal situation. As Columnist Bob Considine puts it:

> "If there is belly laughter at this 'circus,' most of it must be confined to our enemies overseas. If there is nervous laughter, much of it must be confined to our friends and dependents abroad. The friends who are counting on the U.S. Army to fend for them in case the Red Army marches have been asked to believe that important elements of our Army were Communist-ridden. They have been similarly asked to believe that a crusading U.S. senator spent much of his time browbeating the Pentagon to coddle a rich man's son caught in the draft."

This public washing of GOP dirty linen is sickening to the point of obscenity. But it must be followed through to its conclusion. The good of the country transcends any political considerations.

The Demand for Operas Now Exceeds Supply

The Metropolitan Opera is back for its annual spring visit, and Atlanta extends her usual warm welcome to the cast, prop men, and all the glittering entourage.

Grand opera is no novelty here but a firmly established and traditional part of the city's life. The world's greatest voices and operas have been heard in Atlanta for many years, and it is our hope that the Metropolitan anticipates this visit to Atlanta as much as the city anticipates the arrival of the opera.

This year's performances promise to outshine the seasons of the several past years in brilliance and novelty. Of the four operas to be presented, only two, Faust and Lucia di Lammermoor, can be called really familiar to local music lovers, and old Faust will shine in a brand-new dress.

Tickets for the operas were sold out in a matter of minutes after they went on advance sale. There are thousands of disappointed people who would like to be in the audiences here this week, but won't be because of the lack of seats and the brevity of the engagement.

Opera has been working hard for popular support. It has been successful, at least here in Atlanta. So successful in fact, that ironically a lot of its most fervent supporters will have to get their opera this week on recordings.

An Atlanta Man Leads In Fight on Cancer

Another honor, and not an empty one, has come the way of Rutherford Ellis, Atlanta insurance man and former member of the Board of Regents.

Mr. Ellis has been elected chairman of the executive committee of the American Cancer Society, the group that has been leading the attack on the nation's most dreaded and least understood killer.

The new chairman has been active in the Georgia division of the society for many years and for the last four years has served on the executive committee of the national group. His new job is the top volunteer position the society can offer and in effect he is the new St. George in the running battle with the dragon of cancer.

Mr. Ellis brings the same fine qualities to his volunteer work that he brings to his business. We congratulate him on this new honor and wish him well in this vitally important work.

Politics and Prisons Are Like Oil and Water

Apparently another effort is being made to break up the county's policy of using prisoners as equipment operators in the place of free labor.

It should not be allowed to succeed. The current policy of the Fulton County public works department saves the taxpayers an estimated $100,000 a year. The intangible results of keeping the prisoners busy, and at the same time teaching them a trade, cannot be measured in dollars.

Less than a month ago, The Constitution saw fit to commend County Commissioners I. Gloer Hailey and R. L. (Shorty) Doyal for supporting the prison work plan, and now reiterates its stand.

This is an election year, and county jobs mean patronage. The abandonment of the prisoner work plan might please some politicians and others whose jobs depend on popular support, but it would not be in the best interests of the county or the majority of the taxpayers.

Under Warden Carl Mills the county prison system has become one of the best in the nation, an example that others are trying to follow. The work plan is one of its strongest points, for prisoners learn a trade, a necessary thing if there is going to be any rehabilitation worth the name. As a result their chances of finding jobs on release are greatly increased.

Prison morale is important, too, and here is an interesting fact. Three years ago more than 75 prisoners escaped in Fulton County, and were returned at considerable expense. Only one man escaped last year when the work plan was in full operation.

Federal Prisoners Serve As Malaria 'Guinea Pigs'

"For the third time since 1944," says The Atlantian, the prisoners' publication at the penitentiary, "the United States Public Health Service is utilizing volunteers from the men in the Atlanta penitentiary in the search for a knockout punch that will put malaria on the canvas for a 10-count."

The objective this time is to find a cure that can be used by the Army in the field as well as by civilians and in hospitals.

Atlanta was chosen for three reasons: The Anopheles mosquitoes for the tests are bred at Milledgeville, volunteers for previous tests who did not get to participate now get their chance to help out, and the facilities from past projects were already set up at the penal institution here.

U.S. health officials have high praise for "the willingness, selflessness and complete cooperation" of Atlanta prisoners in the past. They know they can count on those qualities again.

The volunteer "guinea pigs" at the Federal Penitentiary have earned the thanks and admiration of all Americans. Not only are they trying to pay a debt to society, but by their free will participation in the malaria tests they are paying that debt with interest.

Ministers Use Pulpits To Promote Safety

The ministers of three Avon, Conn., churches recently passed up their usual Bible sermon to preach on traffic safety.

They needn't have looked far to find a Scriptural text. It's there in the fifth chapter of Deuteronomy, the 17th verse: Thou shalt not kill.

The Sixth Commandment applies as much to the deacon or the steward careless with the accelerator as it does to man who runs amok with a gun.

Turning Military Back to Military Suggested As Method of Checking Re-enlistment Drop

Atlanta—The article published in The Constitution concerning the "re-enlistment drop in the Air Force" attracted my attention and I would like to compliment you on bringing a very serious problem to the attention of your readers. While your recommendation is closer to the truth than any pay raise that Congress might grant, I think someone should come forth and spell out the truth of why top technicians are leaving our armed services.

I think I could be considered one of the "top non-coms" who have recently left the Air Force; a technical sergeant, nearly seven years service, still young and eager, and over four years foreign service. I didn't leave the service because of pay or any disabling loss of "fringe" benefits. I was satisfied with my living quarters and the food was finer than I can find in comparable civilian cafeterias and the like.

But let us look at the "job" afforded to the top flight technicians and you will find the real reason we are leaving and they will continue until someone has the "guts" to straighten the mess out. The armed services have been infiltrated all right and they are guilty of "coddling" but Communists are not the destroying evils. It lies in the hordes of men who are using the services as a 20 or 30-year vacation and are there only sweating their time out.

Primarily, the strongest body exists among the career civilians, but the crop of draft-dodging ROTC graduates ranks close second. They balk at orders without reprimand. They care nothing about the capabilities of the military subordinates and the only qualification they can quote is the wording of their college diploma. They interpret instructions and directives of higher headquarters to their own particular purpose.

The armed services will regain many of their top people (including this writer) when they show an effective plan designed to eliminate the ineffectives and laggards. When I hear sergeants complaining that they are in danger of losing their stripes because they are not carrying out the mission as directed by their commanding officer, then maybe I'll think about re-enlisting.

I suggest that Mr. Talbott review the possibility of turning the military back to the military, that the system of ROTC integration include a required service of at least three years with at least three months of genuine basic training on the principles by which the armed forces are organized and operated, and that individuals who are entering the service be advised that they are entering a responsible job which is interested in making this nation secure from its foes. Then Mr. Talbott will eliminate his problem, and America's problem.

Bootleg Liquor Called Disgrace to Georgia

Bethlehem—I agree with those who say that bootleg liquor has become a huge industry in Georgia and is a disgrace to the state.

The flagrant flaunting of the law proves only one thing, that is, that the officers know all about it and are getting their share. Every one else knows the bootlegger, so why not the officers?

I live in a dry county, but I would vote to legalize liquor for I believe that would at least slow up the bootlegger, and legal liquor would be inspected.

He Opposes Adding Fluorine To Water

Atlanta—Every now and then I see where some citizen is clamoring for the addition of fluorine to the city water supply of Atlanta. There has been a great deal of propaganda published recently which would seem to support the advisability of adding fluorine to city water supplies. However, the advisability of adding anything which is as powerful as fluorine, even in quantities of one to one million is still debatable. There is considerable organized opposition to any plan of adding chemicals to our water supply. It would mean that people would be drinking water with fluorine in it, no matter whether they needed it for their teeth or not.

If God had intended for us to have fluorine in the water which we drink, He would have put a trace of fluorine in it. I am very much opposed to any plan for adding to our splendid water any fluorine to accommodate the wish of a few people who think it would help eliminate cavities. God made men so that they gradually shed their hair and lose their teeth. We who are enjoying our food by mastication with false teeth certainly do not need any fluorine.

There are two sides to this question and that when we are getting along well enough with our water supply, it would do well for us to leave it alone and not try to improve on the fine quality water with which we are blessed.

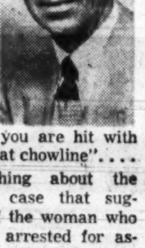
Our Boys Will 'Schine' Tonight



These Things I See and Hear: "Army Times" reports that soldiers in Germany don't louse up the detail any more, they "schine." Instead of telling a man he "goofed", they say, "You schined, boy, you schined." On the other hand, saith the Army publication, you are all "schined up" if you get a week-end pass. But if you are hit with KP, it's "schine that chowline". . . .

There's something about the McCarthy-Army case that suggests the story of the woman who had her husband arrested for assault and battery. Her allegation was that he took a pair of shears and cut her face to ribbons. "When did this happen?" the judge asked. "Last night," she said. "You mean it happened last night and yet you don't have a single mark on your face?" "Marks!" said the woman. "What do I need with marks, I've got witnesses."

The generator in a new jet fighter plane furnishes about the same amount of electricity as is used in 20 average homes. . . . Mr. Y. M. Anderson of Williamson, Ga., has some surplus jimpson weeds he would be glad to give to those horticulturists who want to graft tomato plants on them and are willing to go after them. . . . The American National Insurance Co. will try again tomorrow to auction off the Lookout Mountain Hotel "located on what is locally known as Jackson Hill."

Opera Comes Back To Atlanta Again

Today marks the opening of another season of Metropolitan Opera in Atlanta, one of the city's real distinctions.

Grand opera, once a languishing and supposedly a dying art, is again one of the lively ones. Cities compete for the privilege of performances by the Metropolitan, but Atlanta can remember 'way back when. Then the Met left New York for only two places, Atlanta and Cleveland.

It is one of the privileges of old-timers to recall the days of Caruso, Bori, Farrar, Gigli and Ponselle, and to murmur sadly that opera is hardly worth attending now. The great voices are no more, and the stars have lost the old glitter and glamor.

Distance lends enchantment, and this is as true of time as it is of distance. There never may be another Caruso, but modern opera has its compensations. The performances have been streamlined and so have the performers. Blanche Thebom and Rise Stevens for instance would be well worth the price of admission to Aida and Carmen, if their voices were only half as good as they are.

There are a few still around with waistlines in the best Wagnerian tradition, but this is a vanishing breed. It has been years since a fat Brunnhilde pounded across an Atlanta stage, for the German operas seem to have lost their popular appeal, and so have the Germanic types.

In the old days opera came for a full week. It was a sort of Mardi Gras, and for a lot of people, an endurance contest. Businessmen neglected their affairs, the homes of the city were full of guests, and Atlanta suffered a long collective hangover afterwards.

There was a closer tie then between the town and the stars, for Atlanta was considerably smaller when the Metropolitan settled in for a week. Enduring friendships were formed, and the entertaining was more lavish and much more informal.

The after opera parties at the several clubs were gayer they say, and were pleasantly rowdy affairs in comparison with the stage managed productions of today. Those were the days when Rosa Ponselle would slip into the choir at Sacred Heart Church during High Mass and volunteer her magnificent and high priced voice for an Ave Maria that would reduce the congregation to an almost hypnotic trance of devotion.

Opera is back again today for four performances, and a lot of people will be going who don't really like it, and a lot can't get tickets who are real fans. The new affection for opera almost approaches a mania, and Atlanta certainly could use a longer season, and certainly should have a larger auditorium.

Opera now is sung in the Fox, whereas in the old days called good, the city auditorium was the place. The Fox is still a movie house, no matter what is taking place on the stage, and the between the acts promenade before the auditorium's row of boxes often was the best part of the show.

The Fox is air-conditioned and its seats have springs. The old auditorium offered none of these comforts. If those who complain, that opera isn't nearly as pleasant or as exciting as formerly would only recall the auditorium's noisy old ventilating fans, there might not be so much talk about the good old days.

The Lord Wants Us To Have Some Cake

There are more than 30 separate miracles of Christ recorded in one or more of the four gospels, but only one of those miracles is recorded by all four of the gospel writers. It is the story of the feeding of the five thousand (Matt. 14:13-21; Mark 6:30-34; Luke 9:10-17; John 1.1-13). No doubt this miracle made more impression on the people than any other one of our Lord. Let's look at the story. Jesus and His disciples were tired and He suggested they get off by themselves and rest awhile. The story says, "There were many coming and going." Nothing wears a person down like the constant movements in a crowd.

Especially do I notice this in a city. I spend several weeks each year preaching in small towns. The people there are less hurried, more rested and more confident. Much of the nervous tension people have today is simply because they are tired. Any person is more nervous and irritable when he has not had a chance to relax and rest. Our Lord was anxious to win the world, but He also knew one must be willing to take time off for rest.

I would like to dwell on this point because I know nothing this modern generation needs more than to learn how to relax serenely. It's like the old woman said in explaining her long life, "I have learned to sit loose." It is well to remember that if you never learn to let go, there will come a time when you cannot hang on.

Jesus showed us how to "take up a Cross." He also showed us how to relax. The two go hand in hand. "Come ye yourselves apart into a desert place, and rest awhile," He said.

But as they went, the people saw them and came in great numbers. No doubt the word was quickly spread around into the surrounding towns and a crowd of five thousand gathered.

When Jesus saw them He was "moved with compassion." He saw their needs and He was concerned to help them.

I think that is why the multitudes came to Christ. I know He had the power to work great miracles and could speak as no man ever spoke. But more important, He loved people and they responded to Him. He began to teach and to heal and to inspire their souls. But there came a time when they needed physical food. Sometimes we think religion is only concerned with "pie in the sky" while we are compelled to be concerned with "bread on earth."

It is good for me to pray about the salvation of my soul. It is just as much in order for me to ask God to help me get a job or to bless my business. And the God who made bluebirds and violets, surely wants us to have not only the bare necessities, but also some of the lovely luxuries.

Allies Straining Their Aid Position

GENEVA — International conferences have their ups and downs, and this is one of those stages in which things are decidedly down.

France and Britain apparently have gone isolationist and seem unconcerned about the possible loss of Southeast Asia and would make a deal tomorrow with Moscow if they could do so gracefully and without too much offense to America. Prime Minister Churchill's latest speech indicates he is willing to make a deal in Europe with Soviet Russia. It is significant that he wishes "happiness and ever-increasing and ever-expanding prosperity" to the Soviet Government as well as the Soviet people and wants to see them both "play a proud and splendid part in the guidance of the human race."

What is most disconcerting here is the way Anthony Eden ran out last week on his pledge made to Secretary Dulles before the Geneva conclave began. It was understood that Great Britain would support a southeast Asia collective pact like NATO.

Meanwhile, French Foreign Minister Bidault has tried valiantly to keep the situation fluid so his cabinet would not be overthrown in the midst of the negotiations here. He has struggled to put forth some kind of plan for the partition of Indochina. To the American delegation, the word "partition" has been an anathema. Then, out of a clear sky President Eisenhower discussed at his press conference the idea of partition in principle. It was promptly seized upon here as meaning a repudiation of Dulles.

Actually there wasn't much difference between what the President said and what the secretary was trying to accomplish, namely to achieve a "modus vivendi" in a military sense—but the European press distorted it.

The cause is by no means lost here, however, and it is a good thing Secretary Dulles has decided to go back to Washington for a brief interval, because American public opinion needs to be informed on exactly what the issues are here and members of Congress need to be told how some of them have been inadvertently weakening the hand of their own delegation in Geneva. For, whether it is called "partition" or a "truce line," the important thing is for the Allies to be able to say that they will defend such a line. For it's the only way out—to draw a line in Asia and tell the Communists to stay behind it under penalty of massive retaliation.

But what if our European allies do not go along? Then comes the "agonizing reappraisal" of American aid to Europe of which Secretary Dulles spoke several months ago. Maybe the time to make the reappraisal is nearer than most Europeans think.

AMA Chief Hits Ike on Insurance

By KATHERINE BARNWELL
Constitution Staff Writer

MACON, May 2—The president-elect of the American Medical Assn. told Georgia doctors here Sunday that President Eisenhower's proposal to extend health insurance benefits by a plan of government reinsurance is "not needed."

Dr. Homer Martin of Norfolk, Va., who will take office as AMA president in June, said the AMA opposed the President's plan on the ground that private insurance plans are "progressing so rapidly that government assistance is unnecessary."

Addressing the opening session of the Medical Association of Georgia convention at the Macon auditorium, Dr. Martin said the number of people in this country with hospital insurance has increased from about 9,000,000 in 1939 to nearly 93,000,000 at the present time.

He said 75,000,000 Americans are insured against the cost of surgery and 35,000,000 are insured against the cost of medical care.

PRIVATE ENTERPRISE

"Private enterprise is taking care of health insurance," he said.

Dr. Martin said the AMA also objects to federal control of insurance and noted supervision of insurance "always has been a state function."

President Eisenhower has asked Congress to "reinsure" private insurance plans meeting certain specifications so that coverage may be extended to areas not now covered, including patients with long-term illness.

Dr. Martin said the AMA believes the indigent and the chronically ill are the responsibility of the various states and localities. He said many people are "not insurable."

FEDERAL SUBSIDY

He believes if the plan were established it would be a "disappointment to many people who think it is the answer." He said there then would be a demand for a federal subsidy to provide "so-called insurance below the cost of operation."

"Federal subsidy," he said, "means federal control."

Dr. Martin said there no longer is a shortage of doctors in this country but there is "an area shortage" because of uneven distribution. He said there are now about 165,000 practicing physicians in the nation.

Many states are aiding the distribution of doctors, he said, by operating placement services.

CLOSES WEDNESDAY

About 1,000 Georgia doctors are expected to attend sessions of the 104th annual convention of the state association which will continue through Wednesday.

Dr. Peter B. Wright of Augusta will be installed as president of the association, succeeding Dr. William Harbin of Rome.

Nominations for president-elect and other offices will be made Monday. Dr. Dawson Allen of Milledgeville, and Dr. Rudolph Bell of Thomasville, are expected to be nominated for president-elect. Dr. David Henry Poer of Atlanta, secretary-treasurer of the association and editor of the state journal, is expected to be opposed for re-election by Dr. Hugh Bailey, also of Atlanta.

Dr. Poer reported to the House of Delegates that the state medical association now has 2,366 members.

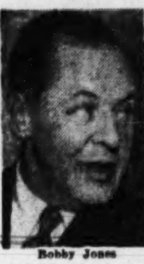
Bobby Jones Sets an Example

"I've been making a study of this fishing situation, as it applies to our lake," said the bronzed angler, "and it's quite simple when they explain why the little fish force out the big fish. It's the same principle that applies to raising cattle, actually. If you have an acre of grazing ground, just so many cattle can be raised on it. So a lake is exactly the same—the feeding grounds are in exact proportion to the amount of water and the extent of the lake's base. Only way to keep the big fish in is to thin out the population of the lake."

The fisherman was Bobby Jones, nonpareil of American golf. He had just returned to the locker room of the East Lake Country Club, Atlanta, which has a lake full of bass just a mashie shot from the clubhouse.

This column was written in New York by Sullivan concerning his recent visit to Atlanta.

Bobby and his fishing chums had been out on the lake all afternoon, enjoying themselves, while the rest of us were slaving over a hot iron on the course where Bobby started his dazzling career.



Bobby Jones

Ben Hogan

Inevitably, the talk drifted to golf. Someone asked Jones, who in his era was the longest hitter of all. "Charlie Hall of Birmingham could move that ball right well," said Jones. "Cyril Tolley of England was a long hitter. And so, for that matter, was Gene Sarazen." He agreed reluctantly that he was a pretty fair hitter when he took off the wraps.

"It's amusing to those who have played tournament golf," reflected Bob, "to read that young Patton lost the Masters because of one bit of daring at the 13th hole. Golf can't be analyzed that way. One shot doesn't determine a tournament of some 288 shots—it's a complete pattern."

Jones took a sip of his drink, and smiled.

"Patton summed up the whole thing accurately. When they chided him for not playing safe at the 13th, the boy said: 'I wasn't playing safe when I made that hole in one.'"

Someone commented on Jones' fabulous record of victories in American and British championships and emphasized the fact that he had also finished second on so many other occasions.

"Many of the times I finished second, I should have won actually but for one big defect in my game."

Everybody at the table looked thunderstruck.

"That's right," chuckled Bob. "There was a real flaw in my game. I never could play defensive golf. If I were three or four shots ahead of the field, in the last round, and attempted to protect that lead by defensive golf, time and again I'd run myself into a disastrous 7. It happened at Winged Foot, both on the front nine and on the back nine. That's why I always admired Ben Hogan so much—when he got in front, he never let go."

"Hogan was in front in the recent Augusta tournament and let go," suggested one at the table.

"I think that Patton caused that," said Bob. "Patton had picked up five shots on the first nine. And Hogan didn't know the kid had blown to a 7 on the 13th hole, because there was no scoreboard at the 11th hole which would have informed Ben that Patton, playing ahead of him, had come to grief. I think that was the determining point of the Masters—that if Ben had been aware of what happened to Patton, at the 13th, he might have won."

So, against his background of golf, a game in which championships often are determined by a "rub of the green," some unforeseen break in luck, Bobby Jones has accepted the physical distress now plaguing him as a "rub of the green."

Unable to play golf, he has turned to fishing. He has studied fishing with the same concentration he once applied to golf.

His Atlanta townsmen have never heard Bobby gripe about the terrible break that befell him, after he retired from competitive golf. He never discusses it. He never complains about it.

And so, he has become an inspiration to every Southern kid who had heard only of his championship exploits, but knows him now as a pillar of strength in his community.

In the Atlanta Old Newsboys drive, about to start, the example of Bobby's fortitude in the face of another disease has been used to spark the volunteer workers' enthusiasm—and it is used daily at the Cerebral Palsy School, when the doctors and nurses need to brace the courage of little tots who get fed up with injections, massages and all the rest of the routine to which they must submit.

Man Swipes Engine While Firemen Work

CHICAGO, May 2 (AP)—Firemen from Engine Co. 4 noticed something was missing when they returned from a fire call early today.

It was a fire engine.

He said he took the shiny red truck on impulse, but refused to identify himself. He was identified later as Martin McCarrich, 47, and was taken to Henrotin Hospital for examination.

Jourdan Stars in TV Drama

Special to The Constitution

NEW YORK, May 2—Louis Jourdan, noted here and in Europe for outstanding stage and screen work, will star in a dramatization of the widely praised novel by Georges Arnaud, "The Wages of Fear," on the Robert Montgomery Presents program, Monday at 8:30 p.m. on NBC-TV (WSB-TV in Atlanta).

Jourdan, currently starring on Broadway in "The Immoralist," will portray Gerard, one of four men assigned to drive truckloads of nitroglycerine through primitive jungle country en route to the oil fields of Guatemala.

Sudden death lurks in their mission, but to Gerard "the wages of fear" are an opportunity to test his strength against everything that men, machines and a back-breaking terrain could throw at him. His ultimate dream is to earn enough money to escape his sordid surroundings.

The intense and exciting story highlights the perilous trek of the four men and the death-laden cargo, with personal salvation the ultimate goal of at least one desperate man.

Don Giovanni: Tale of the Downfall of a Libertine

Following is the first of four synopses of the operas the Metropolitan will perform here beginning with "Don Giovanni" at 8 p.m. Monday. They are being offered operagoers who may want to clip them and take them to the performances.

From the palace emerges Donna Anna, daughter of the commander, frantically struggling from the embrace of Don Giovanni. When her father rushes out in response to her cries, Giovanni kills the old man with his sword, and escapes with his servant. Donna Anna, who had momentarily fled, now returns with her fiance, Don Ottavio, who tries to console her (Fuggi crudele).

Roaming the streets in quest of other quarry, Giovanni and Leporello withdraw as Donna Elvira, a former sweetheart of the don, comes in search of the man she still loves (Ah! chi mi dice mai). Leporello tries to discourage her by reciting his master's many conquests (Madamina, il catalogo).

George London

Eleanor Steber

The peasants Masetto and Zerlina dance into the square with their friends celebrating their approaching wedding. Giovanni, joining the merrymakers with Leporello, is attracted by Zerlina, and bidding his servant attend to Masetto, invites the bride to his villa. Their idyll is interrupted by Elvira, who warns the girl against her new suitor (Ah, fuggi il traditor).

Meeting unexpectedly with Anna and Ottavio, Giovanni drags Elvira away lest she disclose his identity to Donna Anna. The orphaned daughter of the commander, recognizing Giovanni, describes to Ottavio the attack she suffered before her father's death (Or sai chi l'onore). Coming before the curtain, Ottavio dwells on his love for her (Dalla sua pace).

With Leporello Don Giovanni prepares for a festival in honor of Zerlina (Fin ch'han dal vino).

As Zerlina and Masetto approach the palace, the young girl begs forgiveness for her apparent neglect of her rustic swain (Batti, batti). When Giovanni has led the couple away Elvira, Anna and Ottavio, masked and robed in black dominos, gather to the music of the minuet, vowing to punish the Don.

The peasants crowd Giovanni's ballroom, from which the host entices Zerlina to a neighboring apartment. The avenging maskers burst open the door and denounce the Don, who barely escapes with Leporello.

Fernando Corena

Margaret Harshaw

ACT II. Giovanni and Leporello again approach Elvira's house so that the servant may woo her in his master's guise and thus enable Giovanni to serenade her maid (Der vieni alla finestra). Masetto, leading a band of peasants to punish Giovanni, is disarmed by Zerlina.

Elvira, still believing Leporello to be her beloved Giovanni, leads him to a cloister where Ottavio and Anna also gather. Zerlina and Masetto follow them, unmasking Leporello, who, to protect himself, also vows vengeance to his master.

Giovanni and Loporello hide in the cemetery. They invite the commander's monument to supper (Status gentillissima). The statue bows and accepts.

Don Giovanni gives directions to Leporello for the banquet he has planned for the Stone Guest (Gia la mensa) and waves aside the plea of Elvira that he reform his behavior. The Statue of the Commander appears in the doorway and summons Giovanni to hell.

Ike Program Faces 'Month of Decision'

Pressure Begins to Mount With Session Half Over

By WILLIAM S. WHITE

New York Times News Service, Special to The Atlanta Constitution

WASHINGTON, May 2—The month of decision—and it may be stated that the White House itself sees it in those terms—has now opened for the Eisenhower legislative program.

The 83rd Congress, still determined upon an election-year adjournment by July 31, has passed the halfway mark and the great bulk of the President's major recommendations have made little progress.

There is no disposition in the highest administration quarters to accept the recent statements of the Republican congressional leaders to the effect that all is going more or less according to plan.

These statements are seen by the administration as overoptimistic, if understandably so.

The leaders are not "in bad" with the White House, which, incidentally, regards the record of the House of Representatives as quite good but is increasingly concerned at the position in the Senate.

CRITICAL MAY

Nevertheless they have been put on notice that the President strongly hopes for an accelerated program during May and considers that if this acceleration does not come about it will be highly unfortunate all around for the Republicans. May has been marked down as "the" critical month.

It is understood that this view of the situation—and the word "warning" would be too strong to be descriptive—is likely to be underlined tomorrow morning in the regular weekly meeting between the President and his congressional lieutenants.

At the Capitol, on the contrary, there is no agreement among the top Republicans that there has been a slowdown, even in the Senate.

From that vantage point the progress in Congress is considered to have been adequate, particularly taking into account the very thin and nominal Republican control of the Senate.

It is pointed out also that Congresses have a habit of dawdling, or seeming to, in the first few months of a session and then coming on with a rush toward the close.

Still, disinterested observation indicates that it will require tremendous exertions among the Republicans, and a high degree of good will among the Democrats, to raise even the basic structure of the program the President has asked Congress to enact.

NOT VERY PATIENT

President Eisenhower had this in mind in commenting Thursday that while he tried to be patient, he was not primarily very patient when a course of action that he thought good for the United States was left unfinished.

The entire administration, taking its cue, is attempting to stress only the President's program. The basic aim, of course, is that of seeing his recommendations translated into action.

The secondary aim is to put Congress and the Republican Party generally into an affirmative attitude. The attempt is to overcome what the President regards as the collateral and basically unwelcome issues of alleged subversion that are being pushed by the McCarthy wing of the party.

White House pressure to get Congress to act on key proposals is widely in evidence. It was noted last week as the House Rules Committee cleared to the floor a Senate-approved bill authorizing United States participation in building the St. Lawrence Seaway. The bill had been pigeonholed in the Rules Committee for almost three months. Now it is to be debated Wednesday and voted upon Thursday.

TAXES

The administration's Omnibus Tax Reform Bill has been passed in the House and is now before the Senate Finance Committee, which will start its critical work this week.

While Senate enactment of this bill in some form seems assured, there will be heavy fighting over a Democratic proposal to increase personal income tax exemptions. The administration probably will be able to beat this proposal in the committee but the outcome on the Senate floor is much in doubt.

DEBT LIMIT

The house approved last year a presidential request for an increase in the federal government's legal debt limit from the present $275,000,000,000 to $290,000,000,000.

The Senate Finance committee has shown great reluctance this year, as it did last, to act.

SOCIAL SECURITY

The President's recommendations for broader coverage and higher benefits in the old-age and survivors insurance programs have good prospects. The House Ways and Means Committee will begin closed sessions this week on this issue.

As to the administration's request for a new formula for federal grants to the states for public assistance, this will be handled separately, if at all.

LABOR

The President's proposals for revising the Taft-Hartley Labor Act are in great and probably insuperable difficulty. The Senate Labor Committee has brought out a bill, shorn of two administration provisions, on which Senate debate is to begin this week.

The House Labor Committee is at an impasse. It is poised on the point of deciding whether to recommend any bill at all, and if one does emerge it will be greatly different from what the administration wants.

FARM

A decisive bipartisan Senate group is in revolt against the whole concept of the President's plan, which in essence would abandon the present high, rigid farm price supports, or subsidies, for a flexible system.

In the House, the committee on agriculture intends to write, ultimately, an omnibus bill, including some of the things the President has sought and many things he has not sought.

This bill is not expected to reach the House floor until around June 1. The common view is that this will be dangerously late in a Congress which by that time will have entered a phase of urgently looking homeward.

FOREIGN TRADE

The President's recommendations for a three-year extension of the Reciprocal Trade Agreements Act, altered to permit him to lower tariffs by greater percentages than at present, is inert in the House ways and means committee, where there is powerful conservative Republican protectionist sentiment.

Even if it should ultimately clear the House—and many responsible Republicans already speak of the bill as good as dead—it would have a very rough going in the Senate.

FOREIGN AID

Thise whole area is clouded over, primarily by the military crisis in Indochina and by uncertainty as to what is to follow the Geneva conference seeking an Asian peace. The general expectation is that in the end the President, with general Democratic support, will obtain about what he asks for foreign aid. Currently this request is for about $3,500,000,000.

ATOMIC ENERGY

The administration's request for legislation to soften existing strictures to permit an exchange of atomic information with the Allies is dormant in Congress and is widely expected to remain so.

TOUCH FIGHT FOR SPARKMAN

Voting Spotlight Hits Alabama, Ohio Today

WASHINGTON, May 2 (UP)—Voters in five states will reveal their attitudes toward their state and national administrations Tuesday in primary elections to select candidates for the crucial November congressional elections.

The Ohio and Alabama contests were considered the most important tests of voter sentiment. But political leaders looked also to the balloting in Indiana, New Mexico and Florida to give them a hint of things to come in November.

FAMILY RIFT

In Ohio, the family of the late Sen. Robert A. Taft was split over which Republican to nominate for the Senate seat held by Taft until his death last year.

In Alabama, Sen. Sparkman, the Democrats' choice for vice president in 1952, waged the stiffest fight of his 18-year congressional career. He is opposed by Rep. Laurie C. Battle for the Democratic nomination.

The biggest issue in the Sparkman-Battle campaign was the fact that Sparkman campaigned for the vice presidency on a controversial civil rights platform.

In Ohio, Robert A. Taft Jr. announced he would buck the state GOP organization and support William Saxbe, 37, speaker of the Ohio House of Representatives, for the senatorial nomination.

TAFT PAPER

The Taft family newspaper, the Cincinnati Times-Star, supports U.S. Rep. George H. Bender, who had the endorsement of the Republican organization.

Election officials expected only 16 per cent of the voting population—950,000 persons—to cast ballots in the Ohio election. That would be the smallest turnout since 1946.

Indiana's primaries featured congressional races in all 11 districts, with a behind-the-scenes Tug-of-war between Senators Jenner and Capehart on one side and Gov. George N. Craig on the other.

Ten Republican incumbents and one Democratic incumbent are seeking reelection to Congress. five of them are unopposed. The real battle is over the election of about 8,000 Republican precinct committeemen and women, who will choose the senatorial candidate in 1956, when Capehart's term expires.

Craig, a former national commander of the American Legion, is known to want Capehart's seat, and Capehart has not said anything about retiring. They are putting in strong bids for committeemen and women to support them at the state convention.

The power of New Mexico's Gov. Edwin L. Mechem's Republican "statehouse machine" will be tested in that state's primary by a group of young GOP rebels in the state legislature. Mechem is unopposed for the Republican senatorial nomination, but his power is being challenged in the gubernatorial contest.

GOP RIVALS

The young Republicans have pitted Alvin Stockton, speaker of the House in the 1953 state legislature, against Mechem's candidate, Holm O. Bursum, mayor of Socorro.

Sen. Anderson (D-NM), former secretary of agriculture, is unopposed for nomination for another term.

A three-way race for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination will be the high point of Florida's primaries. The state has had two governors in the last 16 months and now must nominate a third.

Two candidates competed for the Republican gubernatorial nomination, but there are only 131,264 registered Republicans in the state. The men fighting for the Democratic nomination, which amounts to election, are Brailey Odham, Leroy Collins and Acting Gov. Charley E. Johns. If none receives a majority of the votes, a runoff election will be held May 25.

Reds Denounce Korea 'Assault'

SEOUL, Korea, Monday, May 3 (UP)—A regiment of U.S. Marines will make a mock assault landing on South Korea's east coast today in a training maneuver the Communists charged was designed to create Asian unrest.

The regiment, attached to the First Marine Division which saw some of the bloodiest Korean fighting, will land about 25 miles south of the truce line. Navy planes will join in the exercise.

Hen Hitchhiker

Zanuck Obtains 'Greatest Story' For $2 Million

HOLLYWOOD, May 2 (AP)—Producer Darryl F. Zanuck announced today that his studio has purchased "The Greatest Story Ever Told," the late Fulton Oursler's story of the life of Christ, for a cumulative price of two million dollars.

Zanuck said this will be the largest amount ever paid for motion picture rights to a story.

The 20th Century-Fox Studio announcement said agreement on the price was reached in conferences between Zanuck and executors of the Oursler estate. The studio said an initial payment of $100,000 was made to the estate today and additional amounts are to be paid from profits of the film.

Democrats Win at Polls In Turkey

By FRED ZUSY

ISTANBUL, Turkey, Monday, May 3 (AP)—A leading Democrat party spokesman claimed early today his party won a landslide victory in Sunday's elections, capturing 505 of the 541 seats in Turkey's new Parliament.

Observers saw the result as a general endorsement of the ruling Democrats' development program for the country over the last four years and approval of new laws to encourage foreign capital investment in Turkey.

CONCEDES 28 SEATS

It was also a heavy setback to the fledgling two-party system.

The Democrat party spokesman conceded the opposition Republican party would win 28 seats. The Republicans won 69 seats in the 1950 elections when the National Assembly had only 487 deputies.

The office of Prime Minister Adnan Menderes forecast shortly after midnight that his Democrat party would have a clean-cut majority in the new Parliament.

The prime minister's office said the Democrats clinched 326 seats—or well over a majority in the 541-member National Assembly in results from 32 of Turkey's 64 provinces.

POPULAR VOTE

The prime minister's spokesman said results from other provinces were not yet decisive.

He listed the popular vote as of midnight: Democrats, 1,690,492; opposition Republicans, 1,011,299.

Kasim Gulek, secretary-general for the Republican party, the chief opposition, conceded the Democrats were leading in contests for 156 seats but claimed the Republicans were leading in 146 others. He did not give out any polling figures.

Earlier the Democrat national headquarters claimed their party had won a right to rule Turkey for another four years by a two-to-one one victory over the Republicans in the popular vote.

No Ties?

RICHMOND, Va. (AP)—The United Daughters of the Confederacy found its organization listed on the calendar of the Virginia General Assembly for five successive days as the United Daughters of the Confederacy.

Texas Politico Parr To Seek Judgeship

SAN DIEGO, Texas, May 2 (AP) — George B. Parr, controversial political leader of south Texas' turbulent Duval County, announced today he will be a candidate for judge of the 79th district.

Parr said he is entering the race because of the many attacks made against ousted Judge C. Woodrow Laughlin of Alice, Texas, and charges that Parr controlled Laughlin.

"My opponents said I control the district judge," Parr said. "Why not let me be the district judge? Then no one will control the district judge but me."

Jordanian Cabinet Falls In Israel Row

New York Times News Service
Special to The Atlanta Constitution

AMMAN, Jordan, May 2 — The government of Premier Fawzi El-Mulki fell today on the issue of foreign attempts to modify its policy toward Israel.

The crisis emerged at a three-hour emergency cabinet meeting yesterday, after which informed circles forecast the resignation of the government at a meeting scheduled tomorrow. The resignation action today was precipitated, according to cabinet ministers and informed Arab diplomatic circles, by a detailed exposition of the situation in the Jerusalem newspaper Al Jihad.

The government had become uneasy over advices from Britain, with which Jordan is bound under a 1948 mutual defensive alliance, to accede to Israel's plan for bilateral peace talks. In the last six months British Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden is reported to have sent three notes to the Jordanian government urging the talks, which have been requested by Israel under Article 12 of the general armistice agreement that terminated the Palestine war.

The Jordanian response was negative. Following the attack on Nahhalin March 28, in which nine Jordanians were reported killed, Amman supported the plan for boycott of the U.N. Security Council by the Arab states unless the Nahhalin raid was discussed as a separate item.

Barricaded Killer of 3 Kin Slain

CANTON, Ohio, May 2 (AP) — A 72-year-old laborer shot and killed his wife, son and daughter today and barricaded himself in his house. The Stark County sheriff riddled the house with bullets, and the man was found shot to death.

Lying across his breast was a high powered rifle, and police could not immediately say whether or not he had taken his own life.

Police identified the man as William Henry.

BLASTING AWAY

Deputy Sheriff Kenneth Anthony said neighbors called and reported Henry was blasting away at his family with a high-powered .30 caliber rifle.

On a small gravel bank nearby, police found the bodies of Elmer Henry, 39, and his sister, Mrs. Ethel Lowry, 33. Neighbors said Mrs. Lowry was shot while trying to restrain her father.

Sheriff Harry W. Grossglaus, who arrived after Henry had barricaded the door to his house, fired two tear gas shells into a window. But they failed to bring Henry out.

Then the sheriff peppered the house, Anthony said, with blasts from a submachine gun and a rifle.

The daughter's husband, Herbert Lowry, was weeping hysterically near the body of his wife when police arrived, and they could not learn if he was present during the shooting. The Lowry's home is next door to Henry's.

Police said they learned from relatives that Henry had threatened to shoot his family on several occasions.

Toots Boost Safety

MIDLAND, Mich. (AP)—Teenagers are off on a toot—specifically "two toots for safety." A high school and a citizens' traffic safety committee initiated the drive. Its object is to get the motoring public to toot their horns at drivers they observe breaking traffic regulations.

Welfare Unit Offers Extra Aid

By ANNE GOWEN

Fulton County welfare workers have placed new emphasis on "the whole life" of underprivileged children on welfare rolls.

More and more they are studying welfare families in relation to the communities where they live, and seeking out often-hidden reasons why these families have had to receive welfare aid.

First results of this new emphasis were revealed in a special report from the welfare department's Aid to Dependent Children section.

The report shows that dozens of families have been able to solve their problems and become self-supporting due, at least in part, to help from welfare workers.

Almost half of the 1,314 cases dropped from "relief" last year are cases where such readjustments have been made.

PERSUASION

Such a case was the one of Mrs. A., a widow with six children who lives in the northern end of the county. Mrs. A's oldest child, an 18-year-old girl, is hopelessly feeble-minded.

Mrs. A. spent all her time caring for the mentally deficient child and neglected the other five. A welfare worker gently persuaded Mrs. A. to place the oldest child in the State Hospital at Milledgeville and she is now able to devote more time to the other five.

Mrs. B., newly widowed, had never held a job. After her husband's death she told a worker she was afraid to seek employment "because I know I'd fail." The worker visited her frequently and helped her gain confidence. Mrs. B. now has a well-paying job and is supporting her three children.

Sometimes the welfare worker is called upon to give instruction in the fundamentals of nutrition.

INADEQUATE DIET

A worker found out the Doe family's main meal consisted of corn bread and one canned food. The worker advised the mother to use more fresh vegetables and told her about using powdered milk, enabling her to give the two children milk in spite of the family's poverty.

In another case medical attention was needed. All five children in the Roe family had serious eye defects and were slipping in their schoolwork. Working with the Red Cross, the welfare worker secured glasses and treatment for the children, and reports they have almost caught up with their classmates.

A worker sent Mary, a teen-aged girl with misshapen teeth, to Emory Dental College for free treatment. Her appearance is much improved and she is getting along better with her schoolmates.

SCHOOL AID

One boy, from a poor section of the city, was trying to work his way through Georgia Tech. He failed one subject, became discouraged and was ready to quit his studies. A welfare worker helped him get a scholarship liberal enough to cover food, clothing and tuition so the boy can devote all his time to study.

But welfare workers often can't look back on tangible results like these. Often they only know one family is eating better or that a stammering child's speech is better.

But the workers, headed by R. Winfred Tyndall, Mrs. Edwina Means and Mrs. Maude Brittain, feel that even small successes are worth all their work.

3 European Traffic Men Visit Atlanta

Rotterdam, Rome and Paris sent their specialists here Sunday to find out what Atlanta is doing with the problem of too many cars and not enough street.

The three officials arrived to begin a two-week study of Atlanta's traffic conditions, courts and control, seeking a solution for Europe's traffic woes.

The visitors are Charles Boulesteix, Paris engineer; Alighiero Bottaro, Rome traffic official; and Koert Jan Muller, in charge of traffic control in Rotterdam.

City Traffic Engineer Karl Bevins will conduct the three on their Atlanta tour, which will include a meeting at 3 p.m. Tuesday at City Hall with the Traffic and Transportation Committee headed by Gen. Alvan Gillem.

They will visit the traffic courts, ride the highways, visit Georgia Tech, and will interview Robert Leopold, executive director of the Atlanta Safety and Traffic Council.

They are three of 33 West European traffic experts now touring the country as guests of the U. S. Foreign Operations Administration.

STATE EXPERT KEPT BUSY

Atlanta's Gardeners A Scientific Crowd

By M. L. ST. JOHN

Gardeners in the big city of Atlanta—and other cities over the state, for that matter—are a scientific lot.

You can take the word of Guy Jackson of the State Department of Agriculture for it. He is right in the midst of answering questions for amateurs and professional planters who are hitching themselves to little garden plows and breaking the soil in their 40 by 40 foot city "farms."

NO AMATEURS

"These city gardeners don't just get excited over seed catalogues, rush out and toss a few seeds into the ground, and then forget the whole project," Jackson says. "They study gardening. They get all the information they can about their soil and its preparation; about the kind of fertilizer to use, the kind of seed to plant; how deep to plant, how to care for the plants, and when to harvest."

Even though they have only small plots of land, these city gardeners ask the State Department of Agriculture specialist what price they may expect for their produce.

Not that they are going to sell it, Jackson adds.

"It's just a matter of paper work with them to see whether or not they earn any dividends aside from the fun," Jackson points out.

PROFIT POSSIBLE

They do show a profit, despite the popular impression that "city farmers" spend a lot more on tools and fertilizer and overhead than their little plots will pay for, Jackson, the chief statistician of the Department of Agriculture, reports.

He doesn't report it from statistics gathered in the Department of Agriculture, however. The department doesn't bother to keep records on city gardening.

No, Jackson speaks from personal experience. He has a garden here himself.

"I bought a dozen tomato plants and put them out," the agriculturist reports. "They cost me 35 cents. The plants will yield tomatoes for me and my neighbors for four months. It wouldn't take a yield of more than a pound or two to repay the 35-cent investment."

The statistician didn't mention the rent on his city "farm" not the personal labor of this state department official, whose hourly wage would be more expensive than the usual yardman.

CANNERY AVAILABLE

City gardeners who produce more than they can eat will be interested to know that the State Farmers Market here has a cannery, Jackson says. They can take their products to the cannery and put them up a little cost.

Jackson answers home gardeners' questions by use of pamphlets. He said the department has 1,967 bulletins on different subjects. Right now the most popular is "Suburban and Farm Vegetable Gardens." Next in line are requests for bulletins on flower gardens and insects.

The questions on insects usually go to another department — the State Department of Entomology.

"We have had so many requests for information on vegetable insects and ornamental insects," says Entomologist C. H. Alden, "that we have recently revised and published new supplies of our pamphlets on these subjects. The revision was necessary because of new insecticides being discovered to fight these insects."

Gardeners flood the Entomology Department with requests for help in fighting insects which are destroying their prize crops or prize flowers and shrubs.

and with less work in the kitchen

Today, Americans are eating 34% more eggs . . . 9% more meat, fish and poultry per person than in 1940. We're consuming 13% more dairy products (excluding butter).

And the food industry has been taking over more jobs once done in the kitchen. Hundreds of foods are now available in prepackaged, precooked, canned or frozen form, in mixes or concentrates. Our consumption of commercial frozen foods is now almost eight times as great as in 1940.

The fact that we are eating better—and with less kitchen work—is just one of many changes that have been occurring in America. In fact, our whole way of living has changed. We're earning more money. More of us own our homes than pay rent. We're raising larger families. More children are going to college. We're living longer.

And the life insurance business is keeping pace and is constantly growing more flexible to meet our new needs.

For example, more and more families own life insurance to provide a regular income to replace that of the breadwinner in case he were to die. Other families own it to assure funds for their children's education . . . or to help cover an unpaid mortgage . . . or to provide retirement income.

A suggestion: Have your needs or circumstances changed? Have you looked over your life insurance to see how it fits in with your way of living and the goals you and your family have set for yourselves?

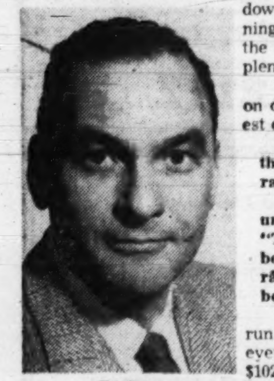
The Small One

LOUISVILLE, Ky., May 2—The spiritual recession was beginning to set in at Churchill Downs Saturday afternoon. The Derby horses, from Determine to Mel Leavitt, were back in the barn. The winning players had cashed their tickets. The souvenir salesmen were lined up in tiers at the gate to catch the less wary clients on the way out.

This was when it happened. Nobody saw where he came from, but between the eighth and ninth races, those that follow the Kentucky Derby, a small brindle and white cur dog came driving down the track. He had plenty of running room and as he turned it on near the finish line, you saw that he had plenty left.



Bisher

"That ain't nothing," said an ungrammatical author close by. "They'll probably call Bill Corum before the TRA for allowing midget racing here. That Determine should be running with Shetland ponies."

The littlest horse of them all had run off with the biggest bank account ever taken home by a Derby winner, $102,050. It disturbed this disgruntled Correlation player considerably. He'd had a chance to see the preview last Tuesday in the Derby Trial, when Hasty Road had run away from the little California grey in the same stretch. This time, Hasty Road never got away. Determined Determine caught his old foe and left him in the dust. To one and all it seemed that Hasty Road had run his race five days too soon.

—There Was Running Room for All

"I could have caught him Tuesday," Ray York, Determine's pilot, said, "but that didn't mean nothing. This was the big one. I relaxed in the Trial, and when I relaxed, my horse relaxed."

This was in the jockey room at the Downs. The place was a turmoil, naked little elves running back and forth to the shower room, leaving watery trails behind them. One little guy, who didn't figure in the Derby post-mortems, was fighting to protect his locker area long enough to get his clothes on.

"Holy cats!" he said. "I'm glad they don't run this thing but once a year."

There had been trouble in the large field, most of it caused by Timely Tip in his haste for the rail. Roughest Derby of them all, some of the veterans claimed, and it may have been for the first quarter. But as the field stretched out and the scurrying colts began to find their level, there really wasn't a contender who could say he didn't have running room. Correlation had it, and Fisherman and Goyamo and Hasseyampa. Down the stretch, though, it was just a repeat of the two-horse race in the Trial, with a revised denouement.

Tom Young, the jowly track superintendent, said he liked a large field. "I've seen as much trouble in a two-horse race as I have in 17," he said. "You get a bigger race and a better pool with a big field. Take that five-horse field Citation's year, that was no good for the pool. You can tell them that Tom Young said he'd start all that can get into both those starting gates."

—Plain Ben and Missing Hank

It didn't seem like a Derby week without Plain Ben Jones and a Calumet entry figuring. Some of them couldn't remember how long it had been since Calumet hadn't had a horse at least for conversational purposes. Last year it was Bubbly, the little filly. Jones decided she wasn't Derby material and ran her in the Kentucky Oaks, and she won.

"Better to win the Oaks with her than run her in a Derby you know she can't win," Plain Ben said.

And where was Hank Moreno, the paisano who came out of the closet and won with Dark Star a year ago? He wasn't around the Downs this year, and somebody suddenly remembered the little guy when the bustle died down. It turned out he was in New York riding Giant Cracker for Cain Hoy Stables in the Swift Stakes, and finishing out of the money. That brought back the most recent picture of Eddie Arcaro, the king of the jockeys, and his flip gesture as he left the little upstairs dressing room.

"Every time I win, four or five guys try to carry my bag for me," he said, as he went off toting his own. "That's the way it is, fickle world."

About mid-morning Sunday, a large green van moved down Third street in Louisville. On the back doors were painted these words in block yellow letters: "Caution—Horses."

Unfortunately, the warning came a day late for the stragglers who hadn't gone to the window to cash in on the little grey champion from the West.

The script was somewhat different this time, but the ending was the same. For the first time in the 0-4 series, the Crackers actually outhit the Pels, peppering Schultz for 11 singles. But, in the clutch, the Crackers continued to use their bats for props, leaving 10 on.

During the disastrous Pel stay, the visitors manufactured 30 runs on 45 hits, while the Crackers netted only 12 markers on 37 safeties. New Orleans stranded 29 men, the Crackers left 38.

Statistics may be boring to you, but not half as boring as they are to Manager Whitlow Wyatt. The calm Cracker manager wasn't so calm after the latest licking, and intimated that there'll be some changes made.

For a change, Cracker hurlers took the power out of Pel bats, holding the league leaders to eight singles and only one double, quite a contrast when you consider that New Orleans struck 17 extra-base blows in the three previous outings.

Bob Giggie, who was stamped with his fifth loss in seven decisions, bowed out for a pinch-hitter in the sixth with a 3-2 deficit. He should have been on top, but his mates were in a squandering mood.

They wasted six hits in the first four rounds, before puncturing Schultz for two runs in the fifth.

Billy Porter led with an infield hit, zipped to third on the second of three hits by Junior Wooten, and scored on Paul Rambone's sacrifice fly. Bob Montag then drew the only pass Schultz issued, and Chuck Tanner came through with a hit to right. Wooten winged home from second, sliding away from Dan Kravitz at the plate.

The Pels had nicked Giggie for a score in the fifth on singles by Bob Honor and Kravitz and Schultz's rbi fly, so the Crackers were ahead, 2-1.

But Giggie juggled the lead momentarily in the sixth, then dropped it due to wildness. He walked Phil Montemayor to open the inning, but Dale Coogan forced the Mexican at second. Coogan took second on a passed ball, and was trapped in a rundown after George Freese bounced to Petty.

In fact, Freese hit into two outs, for Manager Danny Murtaugh, claiming interference by Petty, got the thumb from Umpire Walt Welaj.

Schultz didn't take any further chances with the Crackers, writing off the last 10 men in order. The southpaw fanned seven, as he chalked his fourth win against one loss.

Happy to see New Orleans shove off for Birmingham, the Crackers now brace for five single games with the Mobile Bears. Mel Himes (2-0) gets the nod against his ex-mates Monday night at 8:15.

CRACKER DIARY: You don't have to dig very deep to find out why the Crackers are in a spin. They've averaged only 4.2 runs per game in 22 outings this season. Superb pitching in the early stages is responsible for their .500 level. . . . During their six-game losing streak, Wyatt's crew has scored only 16 runs, while leav-

Cards, Giants Split; 12 Homers Socked

Musial Leads Parade With 5; Breaks Record, Ties Another

ST. LOUIS, May 2 (AP)—Stan Musial today broke one major league record and tied another by blasting five home runs in a double-header divided by the St. Louis Cardinals and the New York Giants. The Cards won the opener, 10-6, and the Giants the nightcap, 9-7. There were 12 homers in the two games.

Musial merely set the pace for slugging in the rain-delayed doubleheader watched by 26,662 for the Cardinals finished with eight homers and New York four.

Kaiser Gets Ace At West End After 30 Years

A. J. Kaiser, member of the West End Golf Club's old guard, had the thrill of his golfing life Saturday when he whammed in a three iron tee shot for a hole-in-one on the 155-yard 8th hole.

It was A. J.'s first ace in 30 years of golf. He had plenty of witnesses, too, since he was playing in a fivesome with cronies Paul B. Ford, H. W. Chambers, T. E. Tolleson and J. H. Phagan.

STAN MUSIAL RELAXES AFTER SETTING RECORD
Card Slugger Slammed Five Homers In Double-header

MUSIAL HITS FIVE HOMERS IN TWIN-BILL FOR RECORD

ST. LOUIS, May 2 (AP)—Stan (The Man) Musial, veteran St. Louis Cardinal outfielder, belted three home runs in the opening game and two in the second today to set a new Major League record for most homers hit in one double-header.

It was the first time in Musial's brilliant career that he had hit three homers in one game.

His five blows accounted for nine runs for the Cardinals. He has hit eight for the year.

The previous record of four homers in a double-header was held by Earl Averill, Cleveland; Jimmy Foxx, Philadelphia Athletics; Jim Tabor, Boston Red Sox; Bill Nicholson, Chicago Cubs; Ralph Kiner, Pittsburgh, and Gus Zernial, Chicago White Sox.

Musial, six-time National League batting champion, smashed the Major League mark for most homers hit in a twin bill—4—and became the sixth man in history to hammer five in two consecutive games, a feat last accomplished by Don Mueller of the Giants on Sept. 1-2, 1951.

Musial whacked three of his home runs in the first game, including a three-run eighth-inning drive off Jim Hearn that broke a 6-6 tie.

In the nightcap Stan Drove in three runs with his two homers to give him nine runs batted in for the day while raising his batting average to .400. He walked twice, flied deep to center field and popped out in addition to his five homers which gave him a total of eight, tying Hank Sauer of the Chicago Cubs for the Major League leadership.

Musial merely set the pace for slugging in the rain-delayed double-header watched by 26,662, for the Cardinals finished with eight homers and New York four.

Hoeft's One-Hitter Blanks Yanks, 4-0

Bombers Blast Tigers, 12-4, Before Five-Inning Effort

NEW YORK, May 2 (AP) — Southpaw Billy Hoeft pitched a one-hitter as the Detroit Tigers defeated the New York Yankees 4-0 to gain a split in their doubleheader with the New York Yankees today after the Yanks had won the opener, 12-4. The second game was halted after five innings on account of darkness.

BILLY HOEFT

Andy Carey's double to left center with two out in the fifth prevented the young Tiger hurler from turning in a no-hitter. It would not have counted in the records, however, since all no-hitters must go the full nine inning distance.

Ray Boone's second inning home run was all the Tigers needed to win but the Yankees handed them three more unearned runs by committing five errors. Harry Byrd, hard-luck Yankee righthander, was the loser, dropping his third game in as many starts this season.

Miller Wins For Phils, 4-3

CINCINNATI, May 2 (AP) — The Philadelphia Phils used stout relief pitching by Bob Miller plus a home run by Del Ennis to spark themselves to a 4-3 victory over the Cincinnati Redlegs today in the first game of a rain-swept double-header. The second game was called off after the teams had left the field following the end of the first game.

The game was delayed in the middle of the eighth inning for one hour and 32 minutes because of rain.

Determine To Start In Preakness, May 22

Derby Winner's Owner, Trainer Agree on Move

By JOHN CHANDLER

DETERMINE MADE THIS PAIR HAPPY SATURDAY

Derby Winner Andy Crevolin (R), Trainer Willie Molter

LOUISVILLE, Ky., May 2 (AP)—The owner and trainer of Kentucky Derby winner Determine finally saw eye to eye today on plans for the tough little grey colt, agreeing he would go to Baltimore for the Preakness May 22.

Andy Crevolin, Alhambra, Calif., automobile dealer, and Trainer Willie Molter have been a continent apart on Determine since the 3-year-old star won the $131,900 Santa Anita Derby Feb. 20.

"It's all set now," said Molter as he inspected his tiny colt this morning at Churchill Downs, where yesterday a roaring crowd of 100,000 saw Determine best 16 others in the 80th derby, richest and one of the roughest of all derbies.

"The horse will fly to Pimlico in two or three days for the Preakness," said Molter. "I'm going home to California for a week and Jack Williams, an old Kentuckian, will take charge of Determine until I get to Baltimore."

Molter said that Allied, Crevolin's other derby horse who finished ninth, "probably will go along too."

After the Santa Anita Derby, Crevolin considered flying Determine to Gulfstream Park for the Florida Derby. Molter won that time, and Determine went to Bay Meadows where he won three stakes, including the Bay Meadows Derby. Crevolin also lost out there, for he wanted to send the grey speedster to New York for the Wood Memorial.

But Correlation had a bad time yesterday, winding up in sixth place after suffering injuries to both hind feet during the running.

"See here, where the nails were pulled out when some horse jumped on him," the groom said. "I can pick that shoe off with my fingers," and he shook it loosely.

He said Robert S. Lytle, the owner, and Trainer Noble Threewitt planned to send Correlation to the Preakness.

Grant Defaults In Tennis Finals

ANNISTON, Ala., May 2 (AP)—Bitsy Grant, once the little iron man of Southern tennis, defaulted due to exhaustion in finals of the Anniston Country Club invitation tournament today.

The 43-year-old veteran gave the match to Frank Willett, Atlanta, as they battled in the third set. Grant had won the first set 6-3, Willett took the second 6-2, and Grant was leading in the third, two games to one, when he walked from the court.

Carson and Kelly Split, But Kelly Takes Big One

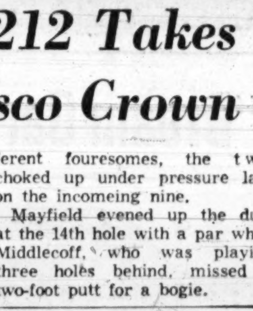
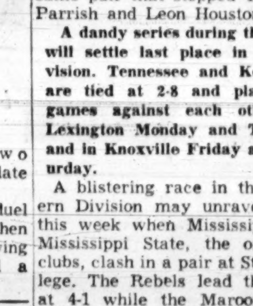
By BERT PRATHER

Coach Howell Hollis of the University of Georgia golf team doesn't have to worry about Johnny Carson and Lester Kelly getting out of practice these days. The boys won't even take Sunday off.



John Carson



Lester Kelly

After competing in the Druid Hills Dogwood tournament a week ago and the Southern Intercollegiate championships which wound up at Athens Country Club Saturday, Lester and John drove over here Sunday to battle for two local club titles.

OTHER COLLEGE PARK RESULTS

First flight—Dave Morris beat H. N. Purdy Jr., 1-up; Second flight—Ray Smith beat Boyd Kinsey, 19 holes; Third flight—Joe Bearden Jr., beat C. R. Holloway, 3 and 2; Fourth flight—T. L. Pinkerton beat George Rounds, 2-up; Fifth flight—Hugh Saxon beat H. S. Mitchell, 3 and 2; Sixth flight—R. V. Harris beat H. H. Buck, 2-up; Seventh flight—A. R. Guyton beat Tom Harris, 4 and 3.

Sunday morning the Bulldog golfers teed off in the final of the James L. Key course championship. At the end of 18 holes they were all even, but Carson won on the first extra hole to take the crown.

This completed, they grabbed a quick sandwich and rushed out to Gordon Morris' College Park course to battle for the title in the Bing Crosby Trophy tourney sponsored by the ladies of the College Park Volunteer Service League.

It was Lester's turn to shine, and he did with a competitive course record of 34-31—65 to trim the Bulldog All-American footballer, 4 and 3. Carson shot a 36-35—71 himself. Kelly's 31 on the last nine was just one short of the unofficial record held jointly by James Stamps and Johnny Bulla.

Next week, rest? Nope, Johnny and Lester will be in Savannah for the start of the Georgia State Amateur Wednesday, and hope they can be in another finals come Sunday at Savannah Golf Club.

Bulldog golf team captain Frank Stevenson Jr., who won the Dogwood, and Jake Howard, who made a fine showing in the Southern Intercollegiate, will join Kelly and Carson in the State. Coach Hollis, a capable golfer in his own right, has stated he will attempt to show his boys how in the Savannah jamboree.

SHORT NOTES: Bobby Stowe, former professional at Meadowbrooks Country Club here and later at Toccoa Country Club, is the new pro at Carrollton's Sunset Hills Country Club. He succeeds Gene Giles, now at Fairyland CC, Chattanooga, Tenn. . . . Charlie Edwards' West End GC will entertain the next Atlanta PGA-sponsored Pro-Am Friday. Play starts at 12:30 p.m. Both Gene Dahlbender Jr. and Tommy Barnes, Atlanta's crack amateurs, have indicated they will try to qualify for this year's U.S. Open at Baltusrol. Qualifying for this section will be at Birmingham CC. . . . Most of the state's leading pros will also enter the Birmingham trials. Darwin White, former Atlantan, is the new Alabama PGA champion. Darwin is pro at Anniston Country Club.

Crevolin Wins $150,850 Saturday

By WILL GRIMSLEY

NEW YORK, May 2 (AP)—Horse owner Andrew Crevolin had himself quite a payday Saturday with winners in two $100,000 stakes, but it wasn't the biggest one-day pot in racing.

The Alhambra, Calif., automobile dealer sent Determine out to victory in the 80th Kentucky Derby at Churchill Downs. Later his Imbros won the rich William P. Kyne Handicap at Bay Meadows in San Mateo, Calif.

Determine's triumph was worth $102,050, a record Derby purse, while Imbros brought him $48,800, making the day's total winnings $150,850.

This unusual occurrence sent turf historians thumbing through the manuals for comparisons, and the result was this:

Crevolin and his trainer, Willie Molter, set a record in winning two $100,000 races in a single afternoon.

The Calumet Farm has that distinction for a double-barreled effort on May 15, 1948. The collection that day was $167,170.

Here's how it was done. Calumet's great Citation won the Preakness, at Pimlico, a prize of $91,870, while two other of the stable's comets were finishing one-two in the Gallant Fox Handicap at Jamaica.

Faultless won the Gallant Fox for $60,300 while Fervent finished second to earn $15,000.

The biggest purse for a single race, of course, went to Turn-To, who captured the Garden State Stakes at Camden, N.J., as a two-year-old last Oct. 31.

This was the world's richest horse race with a total purse of $269,395. Turn-To's owner, Harry Guggenheim, picked up a modest $151,282.25 for that afternoon's victory.

Before that, the record one-race grab was held by a horse named Great Circle, owned by the Yolo Stable, winner of the Santa Anita Maturity on Feb. 3, 1951. For this one, Great Circle, who went into quick obscurity, brought in $144,325.

It's hard to beat the hours—or rather minutes. Crevolin's two thoroughbreds together ran only a total of 3 minutes, 51 3/5 seconds—2:03—for the Derby and 1:48 3/5 for the coast race—to win their $150,850.

But you have to concede Joe Louis had the best idea. He pulverized Max Schemling in their second fight June 22, 1938 in just two minutes and four seconds of the first round. For that he collected $349,228—$2,816.36 a second.

TIBERIO MITRI'S RIGHT TOOK FIGHT OUT OF RANDY TURPIN IN 1ST ROUND

British Middleweight Loses To Italian On TKO In European Title Bout In Rome

Italian Stops Turpin in 28 Seconds

Second Punch Floors Ex-Champ

By STAN SWINTON

ROME, May 2 (AP)—Italy's Tiberio Mitri connected with just two punches tonight to stop England's Randy Turpin, former world middleweight champion, in 28 seconds of the first round of their 15-round bout for the European 160-pound title.

A short left hook and then a right to the jaw slammed the 25-year old Turpin to the canvas. He fell hard and his head hit the deck with a thump.

The referee counted to eight and then stopped. He motioned to the 27-year-old Mitri to raise his hand in victory. Officials first ruled it was a knockout but later said it would go into the books as a technical knockout because the referee did not finish his count.

Turpin arose and wobbled across the ring. The referee, Juan Cervera-Buro of Spain, helped him over to his corner.

The sudden finish was so unexpected that the official timer didn't have the exact time immediately. Then later he announced it was 28 seconds.

Barons Rap Bears in Twin Bill

Replace Travs In Second Place

BIRMINGHAM, May 2 (AP)—Birmingham swept a doubleheader with the tottering Mobile Bears, 3-2 and 8-3, today and took over second place in Southern Association standings.

The victory was the fifth straight for the Barons, who have surged from the cellar since they built up their hitting power.

Little Rock lost a chance to stay in second place ahead of Birmingham when the scheduled Chattanooga-Little Rock doubleheader was rained out.

First baseman Jerry Kudajeski broke up a close nightcap when he opened the fourth inning with a four-sacker off one of Bear pitcher Ken Stupur's offerings.

The Bears seemed to go to pieces after that as Birmingham shoved across three more runs in that inning.

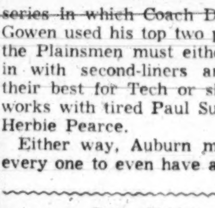
Heat on Plainsmen In Eastern Struggle

Series Opening With Bama Today Could Be Crusher

By LARRY FOX

The pressure is on Auburn this week as the Southeastern Conference's Eastern Division charges down the home stretch of the 1954 baseball season.



Al Parrish

The Plainsmen are in a new position. Instead of fronting the race, they are the trailers and must keep winning while hoping that Georgia's defending champions will falter.

Georgia took over the Eastern Division lead this weekend by sweeping a two-game series from Georgia Tech while Auburn was dividing with Florida.

The Bulldogs, who now have a 9-2 record, are idle until the weekend while Auburn faces a fatiguing four-game card. The Plainsmen play a pair at Alabama Monday and Tuesday, are at home to Tech Friday and Saturday.

Those two with Alabama could be the crusher to Auburn's hopes. Coming right after the Florida series in which Coach Dick McGowen used his top two pitchers, the Plainsmen must either come in with second-liners and save their best for Tech or shoot the works with tired Paul Susce and Herbie Pearce.

Either way, Auburn must win every one to even have a chance of catching the Bulldogs. And every loss for the Plainsmen, who stand 7-2 in the conference, makes the task that more difficult.

Eastern Division	W.	L.	Pct.		W.	L.	Pct.
Georgia	9	2	.818	Ga.Tech	5	7	.417
Auburn	7	2	.778	Tenn.	2	8	.200

Western Division	W.	L.	Pct.		W.	L.	Pct.
Miss.	4	1	.800	Tulane	6	6	.500
V'bilt	7	4	.636	Ala.	5	6	.455
Miss.St.	6	4	.600	LSU	2	7	.222

Meanwhile, Georgia can sit back and rest its mound corps until Florida comes to Athens Friday and Saturday. The Bulldogs of Coach Jim Whatley are knee-deep in rested pitchers but will probably come back with the same pair that stopped Tech, Al Parrish and Leon Houston.

A dandy series during the week will settle last place in the division. Tennessee and Kentucky are tied at 2-8 and play four games against each other, in Lexington Monday and Tuesday and in Knoxville Friday and Saturday.

A blistering race in the Western Division may unravel early this week when Mississippi and Mississippi State, the one-three clubs, clash in a pair at State College. The Rebels lead the pack at 4-1 while the Maroons trail second-place Vanderbilt by half a game at 6-4. An Ole Miss sweep would eliminate State.

Vanderbilt (7-4) closes the week with a rush. The Commodores are at LSU (2-7) Wednesday and Thursday and at Tulane (6-6) Friday and Saturday.

Monday—Mississippi at Mississippi State, Tennessee at Kentucky, Auburn at Alabama.
Wednesday—Vanderbilt at LSU.

Troy Pitcher Hurls No-Hitter For Andal.-Opp

DOTHAN, Ala., May 2 (AP). Buck McDonald, a student at Troy State Teachers College, hurled Andalusia-Opp to a 1-0 victory over league-leading Dothan today in the class D Alabama - Florida League's first no-hit, no-run game of 1954.

The Butler, Ala., pitcher struck out three batters and walked one. Tommy Patton, the only Dothan player to reach first, stole second but was left on base when the fifth inning ended.

CHICAGO, May 2 (AP)—The Pittsburgh Pirates exploded for 18 hits to rout the Chicago Cubs, 18-10, in the second game of a double-header before 7,636 here today, after a 5-3 loss in the opener.

Mayfield's 212 Takes San Francisco Crown

SAN FRANCISCO, May 2 (AP) Shelley Mayfield, young Texan playing out of Chicopee, Mass., won the $10,000 San Francisco Open Invitational golf tournament today with a 54-hole total of 212. He edged out Dr. Cary Middlecoff on the final hole when Middlecoff, former National Open champion of Memphis took Open champion of Memphis, took a 2-over-par six for a 213 total.

Mayfield had a final round 70 and Middlecoff a 74.

Middlecoff started the final round with a three-stroke advantage over Mayfield and appeared to be a certain winner.

He blew two of the strokes on the first nine, however, when Mayfield came in with a two-under-par 34 to Middlecoff's 36.

Although they played in different foursomes, the two choked up under pressure late on the incomeing nine.

Mayfield evened up the duel at the 14th hole with a par when Middlecoff, who was playing three holes behind, missed a two-foot putt for a bogie.

Sandersville, Negroes To Stay in Ga. State

SYLVANIA, Ga., May 2 (AP)—A threat by a Sandersville club director to pull the team out of the Georgia State League if three other clubs continued to use Negro players died today in what the league president called a harmonious directors meeting.

President Bill Estroff said after the meeting that he expected the league "to continue to operate in a harmonious manner."

H. N. McMichael of Sandersville, who made the secession threat yesterday, was not present at the meeting. The Sandersville club was represented by N. M. Jordan, club president, who said earlier that he was "very sorry the protest has been made. It was not made with my knowledge or consent."

Estroff said Sandersville would not withdraw from the league and that Vidalia, Dublin and Douglas — other members of the six-team, Class D circuit — would continue to use their Negro players.

Hitters Run Rampant In Amateur Circuits

Monsour, Hair, Doyle Lead Candler Park to Highest Total

It was a day for the hitters Sunday in Atlanta Amateur Baseball Federation league play as nine of 18 teams seeing action scored 10 or more runs.

Highest run total of the day was recorded in the Crest League where unbeaten Candler Park romped to its fourth straight victory by a 19-4 score over Sylvan Hills.

The Parkers pounded out 22 hits with Charlie Monsour getting six for seven. Henry Hair and Doyle Pair each slugged two homers for Candler Park, driving in five runs apiece.

Sterling Jewelry also remained undefeated in the Crest circuit with an 8-5 victory over Armored Express as Nig Estes went four-for-four with a two-run homer and a double. Sterling and Candler are tied for the league lead at 4-0. In the third Crest game, Simmons Service beat TV Haven, 8-5, on a bases-loaded triple by John Hart.

In the Georgia League, undefeated Jackson Loan chalked up its fourth straight victory by trouncing Kirkwood, 11-1. Tucker remained a game behind the Loaners by edging Bolton Post 156, 6-5, in 10 innings. Also in the Georgia League, Post 147's Jimmy Hayes won his second 10-inning game in two weeks by 7-6 over Shurburtt Service.

Duluth, another of the unbeaten clubs, added its fourth straight in a North Atlanta League runaway. Bobby Barker pitched a five-hitter as Duluth recked Brookhaven Amvets, 16-3. In other games, Doraville upended Chamblee, 9-8, and Dunwoody nipped Local 10, 6-5. Bill Hardeman pitched a four-hitter for Dunwoody.

Still another four-time winner advanced to first place when Riverdale and Tell fought it out for the Southern League leadership and Riverdale won, 13-4. Bud Osborne elbowed a five-hitter for Riverdale. In other Southern League action, Jonesboro bested Pittsburgh Plate Glass, 6-4, and Tyrone toppled Fairburn, 11-5.

A couple of runaways were recorded in the Atlanta League where Union rocked the Red Sox, 17-4, and Glenwood Hills handed Bishop Brothers its first loss, 14-8, but Cosco Paint had no easy time in subduing Local 34, 9-8, in 10 innings.

In the Eastern League, W. C. Caye outlasted the Kilowatts, 14-10; Center Hill beat Rockdale, 7-3, and Shady Grove belted King Hardware, 9-3. —FOX.

BOXING ROUNDUP

Cartier and Dykes Battle at New York

NEW YORK, May 2 (AP)—Newcomers dot the ordinary boxing program this week with men like middleweight Eduardo Lausse of Argentina, lightweight Cisco Andrade of Compton, Calif., and middleweight George Johnson of Trenton, N.J., in the TV showcase.

The week starts with a middleweight battle at Brooklyn's Eastern Parkway between two boys who have been around a while—Walter Cartier of New York and Bobby Dykes of Miami, Fla. Both are fighting for survival as a topflight attraction. Cartier, knocked out in one by Joey Giardello in February, came back to whip Billy Kilgore. Dykes whipped Joey Rindone, April 6, after his technical knockout defeat by Tiger Jones, March 8.

Cartier and Dykes will be seen on TV (DuMont) in some sections of the country. It will be the next to last show from the Parkway on DuMont. They switch networks to ABC May 17 and DuMont will counter with a TV show out of St. Nicholas Arena, also on Mondays.

George Johnson, who crashed the big time by stopping Moses Ward, April 5, goes up against tough Holly Mims of Washington at Baltimore in the Wednesday fight (CBS-TV). Mims, ranked No. 6 among contenders in the 160-pound class, also beat Ward and stopped Willie Troy a year ago.

Red 'Human Sea' Slices Into French Fortress

40,000 Rebels Swarm Over 11,000 Defenders

three of the main fortress clusters.

By dawn, they had "penetrated substantially," in military language, the three invaded centers. They were Dominique on the northeast, Eline on the southeast and Hughette on the northwest.

The Reds clung grimly to their footholds under a rain of French counter-blows, backed by every plane in northern Indochina that could fly.

Details of the ferocious fighting with knives and bayonets, machine guns and rifles, tanks and explosives, lagged many hours behind the actual events because of the rigid military censorship.

Army spokesmen said new assaults by fresh waves of Reds were expected later in the day. They said the Vietminh Communists apparently were bent on grinding down the gallant French defense in this key battle of the war.

Hammered on the front by the tremendous Red force, the outnumbered French regulars, Foreign Legionnaires, colonials and native defenders also were under a shattering rain of field gun and mortar fire from the hills.

They were cramped in a pocket now less than three quarters of a square mile large. When the Reds loosed their siege March 13, the French held all of the stadium-shaped, six-by-four-mile valley.

In the first phase of this third full dress assault, the Communists advanced an average of 170 yards, military sources reported. In addition to seizing the footholds in the main defenses, they pushed within 500 yards of De Castries headquarters.

A headquarters spokesman said losses on both sides were heavy. He said the Reds lost "considerably more" than the defenders.

Solons Study TV Cut To Expedite Hearings

NEWS FREEDOMS

Like Potter, Dworshak felt that the subcommittee in its deliberations should decide whether cutting coverage would interfere with basic news freedoms and prevent widespread dissemination of the facts.

Both McCarthy and Joseph N. Welch, special counsel to the Army, despaired as well at the slow pace.

Welch renewed his proposal that, as soon as Stevens is excused, McCarthy be put on the stand. He said that by this device "hearings would be speeded up enormously." Sen. Karl E. Mundt (R-SD), investigation chairman, has noted already, however, that Ray H. Jenkins, special subcommittee counsel, believes such procedure would lead only to new delay.

"ABOUT 1970"

McCarthy, returning from Wisconsin by plane, told reporters he thought it would be very difficult to shorten the hearings. He said the subcommittee "might be able to finish the hearings about 1970 at the rate we're going now."

A prime concern among members of the subcommittee was said to be the fear that basic issues in the dispute between McCarthy and the Army might become lost in the welter of side issues that develop as the investigation progresses. The main issues are these:

The Army contends that McCarthy and his top assistants, Roy M. Cohn and Francis Carr, used investigations of the Army as a means of attempting to get favored treatment for Pvt. G. David Schine. Before his induction, Schine, close friend of Cohn, worked as an unpaid subcommittee consultant.

Concern about the way the hearings were dragging out went beyond subcommittee bounds. Others in the Senate, distressed at the loss of prestige and dignity, both to executive department and the Senate, were far more outspoken than their colleagues on the subcommittee.

"The charges ought to be investigated but I'm against doing it at a televised vaudeville show," said Sen. Burnet R. Maybank (D-SC).

"HARMING COUNTRY"

Others shared Maybank's belief that the spectacle was "harming the country." In private conversation more than for direct quotation, senators of both parties denounced the "circus," "hamming," and "playing the gallery" attendant upon televising the hearings.

Sen. H. Alexander Smith (R-NJ) said the hearing was "perfectly terrible."

"The Republicans in Congress are casting discredit on the administration because of these hearings," he said. "I think this spectacle will hurt the Republican Party while the Democrats are feasting."

Pike Farmer Is Slain, Wife's Ex-Husband Held

Special to The Atlanta Constitution

ZEBULON, May 2—A 64-year-old farmer was shot to death near Pine Mountain community, eight miles from Zebulon, at 7:30 a.m. Sunday and his wife's former husband signed a statement admitting the killing, Denver Gaston, Georgia Bureau of Investigation agent, said.

Gaston said Isak Salter was shot four times with a .32 caliber pistol.

Pike County Sheriff J. Astor Riggins arrested another farmer, Charlie Gibson, 51, about an hour after the shooting, Gaston said. The GBI agent said that Salter married Gibson's former wife last January and that there had been "ill feeling" between the two men.

Sherriff Riggins, en route to the scene of the slaying, arrested Gibson while the farmer was hitch-hiking on U. S. Highway 19, according to the Pike County sheriff's office. Riggins left Sunday for a trip to Florida and was not available for a complete report on the case.

Gaston said Gibson signed a statement saying he went fishing at Snake's Creek, near Salter's property, "got lost in the woods and ran into Salter."

Gibson claimed he opened fire with the pistol after Salter advanced on him with a knife, Gaston said.

Riggins' office reported that no knife was found at the scene of the shooting. The shooting reportedly occurred near a barn on Salter's property.

Mrs. Salter was a witness to the killing, the sheriff's office reported.

Japan Pushes Textiles

Anzus Parley Weighs Crisis In Indochina

Meanwhile, in Washington administration officials virtually ruled out any direct intervention in the bloody Indochina fighting unless Britain agrees to join a coalition aimed at halting Communist aggression in Asia.

Dulles has had intimate talks with British Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden in Geneva on the subject of British participation.

OPTIMISTIC ON PACT

Dulles is known to be optimistic about the chances of a Far Eastern pact, including Britain coming into effect.

The Geneva conference, it has been indicated in official circles, may shortly take up the Indochina issue.

Viet Nam's Foreign Minister Nguyen Quoc Dinh called on Dulles this afternoon. He hopes to see Eden tomorrow.

Informed sources said the Viet Nam official is discussing procedure for inviting Vietminh rebel representatives to the talks on Indochina.

Indochina and the desperate French Union garrison of Dien Bien Phu are much under discussion here. An unofficial Communist source said today "direct appeal" from the French for a truce to evacuate the wounded from the fortress—today under heavy Vietminh assault—could be the first step toward general cease-fire talks on Indochina.

TRIESTE DISPUTE

When Dulles flies to Italy to see the Italian Prime Minister tomorrow he expects to discuss the question of disputed Trieste, but he will carry on no negotiations on the question.

From Italy Dulles will fly to Washington where he plans to make a detailed report on the Geneva conference.

Dulles was said in authoritative quarters to be annoyed by reports that he "sat down" here with Chou En-lai, the Red Chinese foreign minister, reports that some people might interpret as meaning he had met directly with the Red Chinese leader.

An American spokesman said that although Dulles was in the same room as Chou En-lai nearly every day, he never met him, did not speak to him and did not even look in his direction.

PROGRESS ON KOREA

The secretary is said to feel some progress has been made on the Korean issue in that the two sides have more definitely defined their position. He is said to believe the Communists have made it clear that they will accept no elections for unifications that have supervision from without, such as by the United Nations.

Molotov, a high conference source revealed, turned down the idea of U.N. supervision at yesterday's meeting, saying the U.N. was a party to the Korean fighting and hence unacceptable as a supervisor of elections.

GASOLINE DEPOSITS NEUTRALIZED; CARS REGAIN LOST POWER

TCP, blended into Shell Premium gasoline, releases up to 15% more power

A newly discovered additive blended into Shell Premium Gasoline and sold under the trademark TCP can neutralize lead and carbon deposits which are responsible for the greatest power loss in today's cars.

How deposits steal power

These deposits build up in combustion chambers and glow red-hot when you step on the accelerator to pass a car or make a hill. These "hot spots" set off the fuel charge before the piston is ready for its power stroke. This is called pre-ignition: power works against you instead of for you.

Deposits also accumulate on the tips of spark plugs and prevent the spark from doing its job. The deposits actually divert electricity from the electrodes and keep the plug from firing. This is called misfiring. It results in wasted fuel and power.

How additive works

That's the way power is held captive in your car, but now this captive power can be unlocked by Shell Premium Gasoline with TCP. It is the greatest gasoline development since the discovery of tetraethyl lead, and here's how it works:

TCP additive changes the character of the deposits. Instead of glowing red-hot in combustion chambers, they are "fireproofed," become harmless. Pre-ignition is prevented, power works for you.

Moreover, the deposits can no longer divert electricity away from the electrodes. The spark goes back to work—turning fuel into power! With continued use of Shell Premium with TCP, you get up to 2½ times longer spark plug life.

A tune-up without tools

In a nutshell, TCP additive lets your engine have all the knock-suppressing benefits of modern fuel without its power wasting side effects. In fact, Shell Premium with TCP restores the power deposits take away. This can be as much as 15% of the power your engine is capable of developing. That's why you'll feel your engine's had a tune-up by the time the second tankful is consumed.

Because today's gasolines are always building up deposits, the only way to keep these deposits harmless—to always get full performance from your engine—is to use Shell Premium with TCP. You'll find it now at all Shell Dealers—the only place it's available.

Pope Warns Children Against 'Red Serpent'

VATICAN CITY, May 2 (INS) — Pope Pius XII warned today that children around the world face the "danger of being intoxicated by the insidious viper, the infernal serpent" of communism.

He spoke for 10 minutes at St. Peter's Basilica to 20,000 Italian school children, who cheered him loudly, and 30,000 adult worshippers.

The Pope said he regretted that his condition prevented him from "getting down and mingling with you."

The school children responded with shouts of "Viva Il Papa"—long live the Pope.

The Pope told the youngsters he was saddened by the fact that "the sunshine of your youth may be darkened in the future" and coupled this with a warning against the "viper" and "serpent." Vatican officials said the Pope was referring to communism.

She was the daughter of Chicago hardware magnate, the late Adolphus Clay Bartlett.

Evidence of 4 Spy Rings Lacking,' Brownell Says

WASHINGTON, May 2 (AP) — Atty. Gen. Herbert Brownell Jr. said today the Senate Internal Security Subcommittee produced "no evidence" to support its charges last summer that two Soviet spy rings still were operating in the government.

He also said the administration hopes to bring Communist national chairman William Z. Foster to trial on charges of conspiring to advocate the violent overthrow of the government.

NO EVIDENCE

Brownell was asked on the Gannett News Service radio program, "Capital Memo," about the subcommittee's report last summer that there once were four Communist spy rings operating within this government and only two had been uncovered.

He said "there was no evidence produced to substantiate the fact that there was suposed to have been other spy rings that have never been uncovered within the government."

But, he said the FBI is trying to determine if the charges were true.

Brownell said the Justice Department has asked federal court in New York to appoint a doctor to examine Foster "to see whether his excuse that he is too sick to stand trial is a valid one."

INDICTMENTS

Foster was national chairman of the Communist Party in 1948 when he and 11 other top U.S. Red leaders were indicted under the so-called Smith Act. Foster escaped jail because of a heart condition, but the 11 others were sentenced to prison terms.

The attorney general also said th ejob of ridding the government of security risks "is primarily a job for the executive branch" which is "working in very close cooperation" wit hthe FBI on the matter.

Brownell said the executive branch has "very good machinery . . . to rid itself" of security risks.

He said previous Democratic administrations could have done the same thing but they believed "that you should only get rid of them (security risks) if you could convict them of a crime.

Textile Union Puts Outlook at 15-Yr. Low, Urges New Products To Perk Up Industry

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J., May 2. (AP) — The CIO Textile Workers Union of America reported today that "never before in the 15-year history of our union has the prospect been so uniformly bleak for the textile industry, the nation and the world."

The statement was contained in an executive council report entitled "Melancholy Summary" which was issued on the eve of the TWUA's biennial convention. Over 1,500 delegates representing 325,000 textile workers in 34 states and Canada will attend sessions starting tomorrow.

"OUTPUT SHRINKS"

"We have been getting our lumps," the report said, citing that unemployment in the industry is increasing as more and more mills "give up the ghost" and close down.

Reviewing trade developments since the 1952 convention, the union bitterly assailed President Eisenhower as a leader who "has no program and no will to create one" for fighting unemployment.

It said the President has not fulfilled campaign promises "to aid distressed areas and to effectuate other policies leading toward a recovery in textiles."

The industry can assist itself in at least partial recovery if manufacturers "design and promote new products suiting the nation's changes in living habits and patterns," the report continued.

FURTHER POINTS

The council statement made these further points:

1. Americans aren't dressing up the way they did formerly, but stay home more and wear "clothing which not only consists of fewer items but lasts longer."

2. Public preference for sports costumes has sharply cut sales and production of dressier items.

3. The "slump" in textiles together with a general weakening of the national economy is doubly dangerous because it is a "boon to world communism."

Terming it "unfortunate" that "many thousands of citizens . . . cling to the fantasy that Joe (Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy) is rooting out the reds," the council declared "what Joe is rooting out is the Constitution of the United States."

Brilliant Party Opens Opera Social Season

On Sunday 250 guests gathered at the invitation of Mr. and Mrs. Malcolm D. Therrel to meet Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Pew's opera guests for luncheon at their W. Paces Ferry road home. Honor guests were Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Russell and Cmdr. Dwight Paul of Palm Beach and New York, and Mrs. Russell's young niece, Miss Myra Dew of Australia.

Assembling on the glass-enclosed terrace and in the beautiful rear garden which slopes down to the Chattahoochee River, guests were seated at tables covered with huge black and white umbrellas and under age-old trees surrounded by beds of colorful geraniums, tulips and hydrangeas.

Attractive visitors among the throng were Mrs. Dave Rumph of Montezuma, who is visiting the Luther Randalls; Mrs. Joseph Rault of New Orleans, the guest of Miss May Haverty, Mr. and Mrs. L. W. Robert and William K. Jenkins, who flew in from Louisville after attending the Derby; Mrs. Henry Campbell of Franklin, Va., and Mrs. Charles Christiansen of Cleveland, Ohio.

Sunday evening Mr. and Mrs. Bolling Jones were hosts at dinner at the Capital City Country Club for a group of Thomasville visitors. Honor guests were Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Balfour, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Balfour Jr., and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Heinsohn.

Monday will find the social whirl gathering momentum, with numerous luncheons and dinners feting the visitors. Mrs. Charles R. C. Bowman of Montgomery, who came for the christening of the latter's granddaughter, small Sarah Prescott Rich, on Sunday.

Mrs. Campbell and Mrs. Smith will remain through the week as Mrs. Younts' guests, and on Friday Mrs. Norman Sharp will be hostess at luncheon in their honor at the Capital City Country Club. Covers will be placed for a small group of their Atlanta friends.

Later they will go to London for a week's stay and a 10-day motor trip through the Shakespeare country of England, sailing from Southampton on the Caronia for the journey home and arriving July 1.

Red Carpet Rolled Out for Stars

By YOLANDE GWIN

The proverbial red carpet is out for the song birds. But the song birds? They are out for minimum rates at the Biltmore Hotel and the Georgian Terrace Hotel—home of the stars for their annual visit here. They don't ask for extras.

LOW RATES

"Low rates are about all they ask for, just like a lot of other people," said Miss Shirley Sheridan, reservation clerk at the Biltmore. "Most of our lower rate rooms are on the lower floors and we have tried to fill their wishes. It's a case of first come first, first served."

The fourth floor is said to be the dividing line, she revealed.

"Most of the top stars had their rooms reserved by their booking agents, but others wrote themselves. Richard Tucker and his wife will be here and they wrote for a double room. Jerome Hines brought his wife last year but this year he wrote for a single room. The same goes for George London, Robert Merrill, Jan Pearce and Roberta Peters."

Miss Sheridan said the first request she received was from Osie Hawkins who wrote her from New York on Jan. 3 for a "comfortable single room with a shower."

"I could not read his signature too well and guessed the writer was a woman. I promptly answered to 'Miss' Hawkins. Just as promptly I had a letter from him saying that for the record Miss Hawkins was really Mr. Hawkins."

(Hawkins, by the way, is a close chum of Atlanta's Peter Harrower.)

"We try to give the stars the same rooms they had the year before," said Mrs. Larry Orr, the only woman clerk at the Georgian Terrace, long - time stronghold of the opera stars from the era of Enrico Caruso to now.

SPECIFIC REQUESTS

"We have had two specific requests for certain rooms," she said. Lily Pons' agent wrote requesting a de luxe single room high up for her. Kurt Alder, the chorus master, wrote for a 'very quiet room."

"Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Warren are among husband and wife visitors who are coming and they want a suite. Mr. and Mrs. Kurt Baum want a double room."

Mrs. Orr also added that the request for minimum rates by the stars was not too surprising. "They are just like us, I suppose. Traveling is expensive."

A Man's Life Troubles Engel

Mr. Samuel Engel, the Hollywood producer who has been spending several days in our midst back-tracking on the life of Peter Marshall and making his plans for the shooting of the picture, "A Man Called Peter," looked around the table at the faces of Presbyterian churchmen and educators and their wives and said ruefully:

"I'm sorry I mentioned Marilyn Monroe here. We're friends. I'm going to make her new picture. But this probably isn't the place to discuss that."

Dr. Wallace Alston, president of Agnes Scott College, threw back his head and laughed heartily. "You don't know your crowd!" he said. "You have added considerably to your prestige!"

"Yes," began one theologian's wife, "I'm dying to know . . ." But Samuel Engel, son of a Jewish rabbi who grew up in Griffin Corners, N.Y., and has recently fallen in love with Georgia in general and Covington, Ga., in particular, has a delicate sense of what is fitting and he hastily switched the subject to Leslie Caron and Fred Astaire.

For some time now the Peter Marshall story has been the main enthusiasm in Sam Engel's life. When I first saw him in Hollywood he was sitting in his elegant French provincial office listening to a tape-recorded Peter Marshall sermon. It was the one called "Were You There?" and ended, as members of Westminster Presbyterian Church will remember, with the choir coming in softly but powerfully with that wonderful Negro spiritual, "Were You There When They Crucified My Lord?"

Since he came to Georgia with Miss Eleanor Griffin, who is writing the script for the picture, and Catherine Marshall, the famed preacher's widow and biographer, he has learned many new and good things about Peter Marshall—and some of them trouble him. One was that Peter Marshall never allowed money to be a consideration in accepting a call to a new church. He would not allow anybody to tell him the salary of the new post until he had made up his mind and, Mr. Engel learned in Covington, he once told his members there that they couldn't afford the salary they were paying him.

"That's wonderful," Sam Engel admitted. "It's great. But the man has to be human—and I want to know about his weaknesses, too."

Peter Marshall's old friends didn't expose any real weaknesses in the man but they were able to round out his personality with many little homely stories of his foibles. They told of his troubles in giving up smoking, how they teased him by blowing smoke in his face on a trip and how he stopped the car and got out and walked around it to cool off his temper without an outburst.

His feeling about Christmas is well known. He hated the fuss and folderal and urged a simpler, more reverent celebration. And yet when he was still a young bachelor newly come to Georgia he became as excited as a child over the Santa Claus parade and insisted on going and taking his friends' little daughter.

"I'll never forget the picture he made," the mother told me. "He lifted my child to his shoulder and then he looked down and saw another little girl who couldn't see over the crowd. He lifted her to the other shoulder and stood there—a big, broad-shouldered man with two little girls wrapped around his neck and his face as shining and expectant as theirs."

The producer went back to Hollywood Friday night to get ready for an eventual return with cameras and crews of technicians and stars. By that time all their troubles about what to put in the picture about Peter Marshall and what to leave out will be resolved and there's one thing Mr. Engel wants to include for sure.

"I want to get your dogwood on CinemaScope," he said. "Can you just see it? It'll be terrific."

I agreed but I felt a little private doubt that our dogwood, lovely as it is, will ever replace Marilyn Monroe.

Met's George London Likes His Own Cooking

By JEANNE HIGGINS
Constitution Food Editor

"I enjoy entertaining my friends at home so much more than taking them out," says George London, sensational bass-baritone of the Metropolitan Opera Assn., who will appear Monday night in the first opera of the season, Don Giovanni.

Mr. London is often very pleased after a performance to find his Viennese housekeeper in absentia and "I am allowed to prepare a midnight snack on my own."

A smooth-running party depends on very much the same type thing as the successful performance in opera or concert in the opinion of Mr. London. He has some pertinent suggestions for bachelors and other hosts on planning a successful party:

1. Be relaxed to insure a comfortable atmosphere. 2. Don't experiment on your guests. 3. Light is more important than you think. A soft, pleasant illumination will help keep the general atmosphere pleasant, while a harsh and glaring light can hamper it. 4. See to it that conversation does not lag.

The dashing young American bass-baritone gives the recipe for a favorite salad that is especially suggested for the warm summer days ahead.

Gardeners Schedule Judging School

Scheduled for May 4-6 at the First Methodist Church in Marietta, the course will be taught by Mrs. C. T. Greer and Mrs. T. R. Crown. Tickets may be bought at the door or from Mrs. George Dozier at 600 Whitlock Avenue, Marietta.

Many garden club members will be interested in the course for it has been some time since a similar school has been held either in Marietta or Atlanta.

COURSE TWO PLANNED

Marietta garden club officials have stated that they plan to present Course Two in the fall and next spring and the fall of 1955 Courses Three and Four will be held and the final one, Course Five will be held in 1956.

Under the national rules for courses only two a year are offered.

The question of "Why Flower Show Schools?" is often asked. Mrs. Robert Palmer of the Garden Club of Alabama sums up the reasons in a speech which she recently made to the National Gardeners.

"Primarily of course it is to train good judges, to assure the garden clubs of having their flower shows judged according to accepted standards.

"NO GUESSING"

"More important, it is to take the guess out of exhibiting. The exhibitor learns the fundamental principles that are a part of every prize winning entry. Lessons on design, color, plant material and growth all aid in making your idea the masterpiece which wins the blue ribbon.

"But judging schools have still a larger scope: the education of the spectator. It is understood that those with some knowledge of music enjoy a concert more. Also, one who recognizes beauty of line, loveliness of color and form enjoys a trip to a museum with greater appreciation.

"Why is it not equally important to view a flower show with a trained eye? Is it not more pleasant to have an acquaintance with native plants to know how to produce a specimen, and to have the appreciation that a truly fine arrangement never 'just happens?' "

Miss Keel To Marry

The marriage of Miss Alice Lee Keel to John Tibor Pataky, originally scheduled for June 19, will take place in the Winship Chapel of the First Presbyterian Church at 7:30 o'clock on Friday, May 7, due to the bridegroom-elect receiving notice of induction into the armed forces.

Miss Keel, daughter of Mrs. Julian W. Keel and the late Mr. Keel, attended Emory University. She is employed by Retail Credit Co.

Mr. Pataky, son of Mr. and Mrs. Tibor G. Pataky of Orlando, Fla., attended McCallie School and is now a student at Georgia Tech where he belongs to Sigma Chi fraternity, Alpha Phi Omega, Pershing Rifles, Management Club, and is on the staff of The Engineer. He had expected to graduate in September.

Medlock Club Plans Lecture

The Medlock Garden Club Assn. will present Mrs. Paul J. McGovern, well-known authority on arrangements and nationally accredited flower show judge, on May 10 at 8 p.m. at the Medlock school, in a program on arranging.

Proceeds will be used to finance the association's project of landscaping the Medlock school grounds.

MRS. WAYNE SASSER

Before her marriage on Saturday Mrs. Sasser was Miss Charlotte S. Walker, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Walker of Roswell. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Charles L. Allen at Grace Methodist Church. Both Mr. and Mrs. Sasser are employed by Dun and Bradstreet, Inc.

Off-Street Parking Increases Retail Sales for Businesses

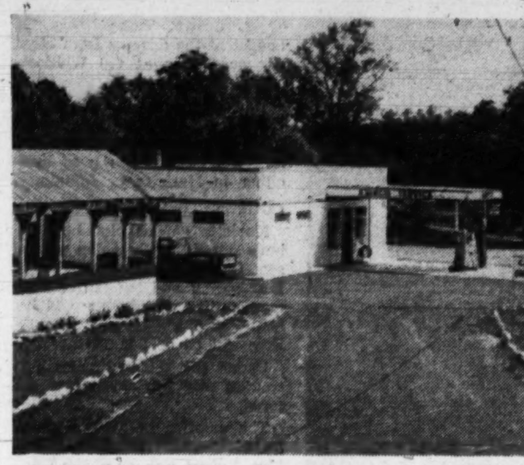
Store owners and managers have noted that sales immediately take an upward swing when adequate off-street parking areas are made available to customers.

One of the country's largest retail operators has learned that the store must provide off-street parking on the ratio of one car space per each $10,000 annual volume they hope to do.

Other studies made by successful operators of super-type food stores show that a ratio of one parking space for every two to three customers must be provided.

Sales volume has a direct relationship to parking facilities, their figures show. Sales increases ranging from 20 per cent to 30 per cent have been noted immediately by stores that have surfaced additional area, bringing inadequate parking lots up to recognized standards.

Typical of how adequate off-street parking pays for itself is shown in the case of the J. P. Campbell Grocery Company, 5225 Campbellton Road, S. W. The firm only recently enlarged its customer parking lot to provide space for up to 25 automobiles. After opening the area to his customers, Mr. Campbell noted an immediate business increase of approximately 25 per cent.



BUSINESS UP 25%—Shown is new drive and parking area at J. P. Campbell Grocery Company, 5225 Campbellton Rd., SW. Area was surfaced only a few weeks ago by MacDougald-Warren, Inc. Firm showed an immediate 25% business increase when area was opened to customers. Read story on this page for details on relationship of adequate off-street parking to sales increases.

To find out what off-street parking can mean to your business, you are urged to call MacDougald-Warren, Inc., specialists in the construction of off-street parking and loading facilities.

No job is too large, nor too small for skilled MacDougald-Warren crews. They are adept at all phases—heavy earth moving, grading, base preparation and final asphalt surfacing.

An informed MacDougald-Warren representative will explain how MacDougald-Warren's mass production economies cut down on cost. He will also pass along to you pertinent data that will help you form plans for building and expanding. Cost estimates furnished at no obligation. Now Featuring New 1954 Refrigerators

Refrigerators that defrost themselves are as great a mechanical marvel in this decade as the first automobiles designed to start at the touch of a foot-pedal, a generation ago.

The self-starter eliminated the most back-breaking chore of the early automobile driver, and from a novel accessory it has come to be a fundamental standard, according to A. B. Okarma, owner and operator of Okarma's, 2293 Peachtree Rd., NW, Kelvinator dealer in this area.

"In the 40 years that the electric household refrigerator has been the most essential mechanical servant in the family kitchen, the only real task it presented to the homemaker was the chore of regular defrosting," he said.

"Today, the invention of ways to accomplish defrosting swiftly and efficiently, without harming stored frozen foods, has made messy hand-defrosting as out-of date as the hand-cranked car. The trademark of the modern refrigerator in the years to come will be its ability to free itself from frost, either at the touch of a button, or on a regular basis, without watching."

Mr. Okarma said evidence of the trend is a move this year by the pioneer manufacturer of electrical household refrigerators, now celebrating its 40th year in the field. Every 1954 Kelvinator refrigerator, he said, affords the homemaker a holiday from her former defrosting chore, since all are equipped to defrost themselves.

The automatic defrosting system is not an extra-price feature available only on de luxe models, but a standard part of every model in every size in the regular 1954 line, at no extra cost.

"There's an interesting story behind the development of the Kelvinator Magic Cycle defrosting system," he said. "The company's chief engineer, Dr. L. A. Philipp, had been thinking for a long time over the problem of how to eliminate frost from the refrigerator naturally, without having to cook it off with red-hot electricity.

"One night on a long airplane flight, the idea came to him. He could hardly wait to get back on the ground and work out his idea on paper. The result was a system that takes advantage of the known principles of heat-transfer, and actually uses cold to melt away the frost.

"As we all know, 32 degrees fahrenheit is freezing, and icy streets will thaw at 33, even though the weather still is cold enough to make us bundle up. The Magic Cycle system does just this—it sends chemical refrigerant that is relatively warm, by a shortcut directly from the warm refrigerator motor to the frozen food chest. The refrigerant is cold to our touch, but so much warmer than frost that it melts the frost on the freezer chest.

"The warming takes place from the inside of the refrigerant tubing outward. Therefore the frost melts away without any thawing of ice cream and frozen foods in the refrigerator's frozen food chest. It's defrosting without de-freezing."

ONE MORE NUISANCE GONE—Today's homemaker can turn her back on the messy hand defrosting chore, with the help of the Modern Kelvinator automatic defrosting refrigerator. You can see this 1954 "magic cycle" beauty at Okarma's, 2293 Peachtree Rd., and in the showrooms of other Kelvinator dealers. Incidentally, when you visit your Kelvinator dealer, be sure to obtain your entry blank for Kelvinator's big $75,000 contest. See story.

Is Shabby Furniture Necessary? Not With This 3-Way Treatment

Re-Upholstering Slip-Covering Or Cleaning

There's just not an excuse in the world for you to put up with old, shabby, worn-looking living room furniture—not when Southern Upholsterers gives you your choice of custom re-upholstering . . . custom slip-covering . . . or custom cleaning!

This reliable old Atlanta firm has a record of more than 25,000 satisfied customers to testify to the fine quality of their workmanship. Whether you have Southern Upholsterers clean, slip-cover, or completely re-upholster your furniture, all workmanship is covered by a written, notarized guarantee.

SPECIAL—For Mother's Day

FREE 3-pc. imported table lighter set, consisting of silver-plated lighter? cup and tray, will be given with each 2-pc. suite order this week. Call ALpine 5639 for an appointment with a Southern Upholsterers decorator in the convenience of your own home. No charge or obligation.

Slip-covering is, of course, one of the most effective and least expensive ways of freshening old furniture—and Southern Upholsterers' new line of spring slip-covering fabrics is just about the newest, brightest, and most complete in town! Your furniture will be custom-measured and the slipcovers custom-tailored by Southern. All fabrics are vat dyed to assure color-fastness, and preshrunk to assure continued perfect fit.

If you're not ready to re-upholster and you don't want to slip-cover, but you need . . . something . . . the answer is custom cleaning. As accomplished by Southern Upholsterers, furniture cleaning is a fine art, and leaves your soiled furniture looking like new again. Your sofa and chair can be custom cleaned for as little as $19.50.

But for downright luxury in low-cost redecorating—have your old furniture re-upholstered by Southern Upholsterers! It will come back to you looking and feeling even better than brand-new, and at such a little cost for such a difference!

The reupholstering process, once your old furniture is in Southern Upholsterers' big modern plant, includes all these important steps: your furniture is stripped down to the frame and the wood parts are repaired and strengthened. The springs are reset and retied, and reinforced with steel bands. The old stuffing is replaced with new quality padding and moss for years of sitting comfort. The woodwork is refinished.

The price for all this is as low as $79.50, a sofa and chair. No down payment is required, and the cost may be paid on convenient credit terms at Southern Upholsterers.

Simmons Plating Offers Industrial Plating Here

Of much interest to the commercial trade are the facilities of the Simmons Plating Works for industrial plating, their three large plants being devoted to this enterprise. The experience of their engineers is at the disposal of firms interested in this branch of plating, where the products are plated for protection, longer life and better service or for appearance. Worn parts are built up and given new life rather than discarding same.

Their special hard industrial chromium when applied to moving parts and where there is friction and wear has proven a boon to manufacturers and have proven to resist rust and corrosion. Chromium has proven to have a low co-efficient of friction quality for resisting wear on dies, molds, gauges and drills and heavy coatings prevent rust. Lighter coatings of chromium give beauty and lasting appearance and is used for decorative purpose.

Electroplating by zinc has proven unexcelled for corrosion on certain articles. Cadmium is also used for prevention of rust and corrosion. Cadmium, being a self-lubricating plate, is ideal for the plating of malleable and cast iron.

Electro and hot dipped tin is recommended for sanitation and prevention of bacteria. Dairies and bakeries have found it unexcelled. Dairies are now retinning milk cans, pasteurizer coils, troughs, etc., and bakeries retinning their mixing bowls, bread pans, etc., Nothing has been found to take the place of block tin for refrigerator equipment.

The name of Simmons is synonymous with protection of metals whether for industry or for the home. A laboratory is maintained for the constant control of solutions and the testing of metals and their technicians are at the disposal of firms interested in plating for protection or for enhancement of their product.

By phoning the Simmons Plating Works at their main plant at 219 Pryor St., CYpress 8646, a technician will call and go over your problem without obligation.

Irwinton Poultry Raiser Nets $5.19 Profit Per Hen

Used 'Super Quality' Feeds Exclusively

"FROM BABY CHICK TO LAYING HEN"—Mrs. Frank Williams, sister-in-law of Mr. Flenora Williams, and a portion of his 500-flock of Babcock-Strain White Leghorns in their laying house. Mrs. Williams is responsible for the care of the flock.

Flenora Williams, a highly successful poultry raiser of Irwinton, Georgia, reports having made a net profit of $5.19 per bird from his flock of 500 layers. The flock was started in 1952 on Super Quality Foundation Diet for the first eleven weeks, then developed to full body capacity the next eleven weeks on Super Quality Pullet Developer.

After his flock started producing Mr. Williams put them on Super Quality Nu-Day-Lay, a complete high efficiency ration for laying flocks, designed to provide all eggmaking nutrients and body maintaining nutrients layers require.

An accurate record of feed costs shows that Mr. Williams spent $1,685.05 during 1952 for feed and received $2,251.86 from egg sales that year. During 1953 his feed costs were $1,648.40 and egg receipts $3,686.58, making a net profit of $5.19 per bird by the end of 1953.

Mr. Williams is raising 3,000 pullets on Super Quality Foundation Diet and Super Quality Pullet Developer this year, supplemented with the high vitamin, high protein, high antibiotic feed EXTRAVIM to maintain fast growth and appetite even in the presence of chronic respiratory diseases. EXTRAVIM also promotes good feed consumption and high egg production in laying flocks.'

Mr. Williams' successful experience shows the importance of good management plus scientifically balanced feeds in producing poultry raising profits. In addition to proved formulas, Super Quality Feed users are able to buy very desirable premiums at savings of 50 per cent and up.

Super Quality Feeds are sold in Atlanta by the Standard Feed Stores and by other reliable dealers throughout the state. Poultry raisers are invited to write the Standard Feed Milling Company, 4 Fairlie Street, Atlanta, for feeding advice and information, and the name of their nearest Super Quality Feed Dealer.

Roy F. Morgan Agency Stresses Prompt Service

Even a casual visitor to the Roy F. Morgan Agency of Mutual of Omaha, in the William-Oliver ing, Atlanta, could not help but be impressed by the numerous agency mottos displayed in prominent places throughout all of these general offices.

The motto displayed so prominently reads "Give the Kind of Service We Advertise." This type of treatment to Georgia policyowners has resulted in a phenomenal growth of the Roy F. Morgan Agency, which is the largest accident and health insurance agency in the entire southeast. The local agency of Mutual of Omaha leads the entire state on premium income and also in the amount of claims paid to its policyowners.

Benefits paid to Georgia policyowners now exceeds $150,000.00 monthly, and these benefits are paid from the Atlanta Office, making it not necessary to go out of the state to obtain help at a time when funds are necessary to take care of the expense of sickness or accidents. Many Georgians have experienced what it means to be paid on a local level rather than being forced to request payment of claims from some far distant territory.

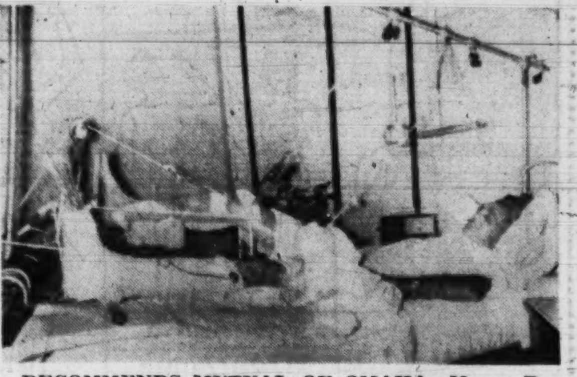
The prompt, willing, and courteous service given by the entire staff in the Roy F. Morgan Agency, together with the integrity of the entire Mutual of Omaha organization, means more than many things which might be written into a policy. The majority of the Roy F. Morgan Agency personnel has had many years' service with the local organization, and in these years of service the precept that policyowners' interests come first has been rigidly followed.

In the accompanying photograph, Henry R. Stringfellow of Macon is shown recovering from a very serious recent automobile accident. Mr. Stringfellow writes that he is recommending Mutual of Omaha to all of his friends or to anyone else who wants protection against unforeseen accidents or sickness on both hospitalization insurance and loss of time insurance. Mr. Stringfellow, in his letter, also expressed appreciation for his three previous prompt claim payments made by the local agency of Mutual of Omaha.

The public has recently seen many news articles emanating from the Nation's capital stressing the need for the best of financial protection against cost of sickness and accidents, and Georgians are reminded that Mutual of Omaha has long featured such protection in its lifetime benefits for loss of time because of total disability from accidents and confining sickness and its hospital confinement and substantial reimbursement for surgical and medical costs.

Many policyowners in Georgia have been receiving monthly income checks for more than twenty years of sickness or accident disability, and last year alone, Mutual of Omaha paid over $63,000,000.00 in benefits to its policyowners.

If you would like to receive fuul information without obligation, concerning Mutual of Omaha's individual, family group or payroll groups, call or write the Roy F. Morgan Agency, P.O. Box 1748, Atlanta 1, Georgia, or telephone CYpress 5891.



RECOMMENDS MUTUAL OF OMAHA—Henry R. Stringfellow Sr. of Macon, Ga., is seen above recuperating from a very serious automobile accident which confined him to the hospital for more than 100 days. Mr. Stringfellow carried his hospitalization insurance and his loss of time coverage with the Roy F. Morgan Agency of Mutual of Omaha, and writes that in his opinion there is no better protection than that which he carried with this local organization. Mr. Stringfellow further recommends Mutual of Omaha to all of his friends or to anyone else desiring protection against unforeseen accidents and sickness.

Saint's Blood Liquefies And Ill Omen Fades

NAPLES, Italy, May 2 (AP)—Cries of joy, ringing of bells and fireworks swept through this Italian port tonight at the announcement from Naples Cathedral that the blood of its paron, St. Januarius, had finally softened and melted—a day late.

The blood of the martyred saint should have liquefied yesterday, as it usually has done on the first Saturday of May the past four centuries. When it has failed to melt Naples has had bad luck.

Even a delay is considered an ill omen. A delay of several hours in 1940 was followed by Benito Mussolini's disastrous declaration of war.

Yesterday, after hours of prayers, the blood was still solid. Marcello Cardinal Mimmi, archbishop of Naples, urged the people to pray again today.

Devout Neapolitans assembled at the cathedral this morning once more, attended mass and again prayed. Some of the more excitable and worried began to scream.

At 10:30 a.m. Msgr. Giuseppe Cattaneo, custodian of the blood, which is kept in two silver phials, inspected it.

"It is not melted," he told the weeping, praying people, who at that hour numbered about 10,000.

St. Januarius, bishop of Beneveto, was beheaded at Pozzuoli, near Naples in the year 305. His body is buried in Naples' Cathedral. His blood is kept in a side chapel of the cathedral.

Only three times in the past has it failed to melt before the prayers of Neapolitans. The last time was in 1944, when Vesuvius erupted. It failed to liquefy in 1884. That was followed by an epidemic of cholera. IIn 1527, when it also faile to melt, bubonic plague wiped out about half of Naples' population.

Commission Studies Jail Criticisms

A plan to use Bellwood Public Works Camp instead of Fulton Tower to house county prisoners is expected to be considered by the Fulton Commission Wednesday.

At this time the commission will discuss the April-May grand jury's censure of the 50-year-old Tower as "a disgrace to Fulton County."

ASKS STUDY

The jury asked the commission to undertake an immediate investigation to determine if the Tower can be remodeled or if it should be junked and new jail facilities found.

Three of the five commissioners mentioned moving county prisoners to Bellwood as a possible solution to the problem. All five said the jury's charge that the Tower is dilapidated and overcrowded should be looked into immediately.

Commissioner Tom Camp said, "We might consider placing the jail facilities at Bellwood. I have serious doubts that we could ever satisfactorily remodel this old building to present day standards."

WINS ACCORD

Commissioner R. L. (Shorty) Doyal agreed. He said the county's state prisoners now at Bellwood could be moved to other Fulton County work camps at Alpharetta and Stonewall to make way for the jail prisoners.

He said the Tower property could be sold for enough money to build facilities at Bellwood with space enough for city and county jail prisoners. Or else, Doyal said, the Bellwood property could be sold for enough to build a new jail somewhere else.

A Rhyme a Day

"Following the argument, the 74-year-old crippled farmer wheeled his chair to the bedroom, returned with a shotgun, shot his nephew and wounded his niece."—Detective magazine story.

Since our experience has been . . . about the same as other men . . . and since we are about as slow . . . to learn as anyone we know . . . we do not think we're qualified . . . to be a mentor or a guide . . . especially when we're among . . . the younger people, since the young . . . are smarter in a hundred ways . . . than we were in our "palmy days."

And, as for people who are old . . . they're too darn stubborn to be told . . . for, as they move toward the end . . . of life, they'll break before they bend . . . and so a chasm lies between . . . the "know-it-all" of 17 . . . and some old fellow who has had . . . experience, good and bad.

How fortunate the world would be . . . if older folks could only see . . . the younger people's point of view . . . and young folks gave the credit due . . . an older genaration that . . . had its back pressed to the mat . . . its nose pressed to the grinding stone . . . pressed for the payment of some loan, . . . so, by the time a man is old . . . he's pressed into a solid mold.

ANSWERS TO BRIDGE QUIZ

Q. 1—As South you hold:

♠AQ6 ♥KQ9 ♦AJ852 ♣104

The bidding has proceeded:

West	North	East	South
Pass	Pass	1 club	Double
1 no trump	Pass	Pass	?

A.—Double again. Even tho partner was unable to make a free bid, you should not abandon this hand, which contains 16 points in high cards. A bid of two diamonds is not recommended, for the double might result in a late leave-in by partner, which could prove profitable.

Q. 2—As South, both sides vulnerable, you hold:

♠A742 ♥AK864 ♦J6 ♣32

The bidding has proceeded:

West	North	East	South
1 diamond	Pass	2 clubs	?

What do you bid?

A.—Pass. There is no action that you can take with safety. Against an opening bidder and an adversary who has been able to respond at the level of two, it is extremely risky to reach for an eight trick contract with a hand that may well produce no more than four tricks. If the bidding dies prematurely it will be time enough for you to consider taking action.

Q. 3—As South you hold:

♠AJ73 ♥Q10 ♦1063 ♣AQ105

The bidding has proceeded:

North	East	South	West
1 heart	Pass	1 spade	Pass
3 hearts	Pass	4 clubs	Pass
4 diamonds	Pass	?

What do you bid now?

A.—Six hearts. Your trump support is very adequate for a suit in which partner has made a jump rebid. Your hand has the essential ingredients of an opening bid and partner has opened the bidding and jumped. That spells slam.

Q. 4—As South you hold:

♠Q7 ♥A3 ♦AJ852 ♣AJ93

The bidding has proceeded:

South	West	North	East
1 diamond	Pass	1 spade	Pass
2 clubs	Pass	3 diamonds	Pass

What do you bid now?

A.—You have considerably more than you need have had for your previous bids, and a hand that is known to fit well, so that the possibilities of a slam should not be overlooked. In order to elicit further information from partner, the suggested call is three hearts. Partner will surely recognize this as an ace showing bid, and after his next response you may be in better position to make a decision as to the ultimate contract.

Q. 5—As South you hold:

♠AKJ5 ♥AJ74 ♦Q96 ♣52

The bidding has proceeded:

South	West	North	East
1 spade	Pass	Pass	Double

What do you bid now?

A.—With a partner who for practical purposes is nonexistent, there is nothing to be gained by your taking action at this point. There is no need for panic which might be induced by a fear that the one spade bid will be left in. The chances are against it, and you are better advised to let nature take its course. Pass.

Q. 6—As South you hold:

♠K52 ♥AK9864 ♦J ♣Q32

The bidding has proceeded:

East	South	West	North
Pass	1 heart	Pass	2 diamonds

What do you bid now?

A.—I do not regard the length of the heart suit as sufficient justification for a free rebid at this high level, particularly when you might have a misfit on your hands. A commitment for nine tricks might be extremely hazardous, especially since West may have been lying in the bushes to await such a development. It is more prudent to give partner the next chance. If he has definite values, he will have the opportunity to express himself. Pass.

Q. 7—As South you hold:

♠864 ♥AQJ1075 ♦K84 ♣A

The bidding has proceeded:

South	West	North	East
1 heart	1 spade	2 diamonds	Pass

What do you bid now?

A.—Our own preference is for a rebid of merely two hearts, which is to be sure somewhat of an understatement, and yet a jump to three hearts would be a shade too aggressive. There is no need to press when partner has made a free bid and therefore intends to make some move toward game. On the next round, South will be in a position comfortably to make a delayed jump.

Q. 8—As South you hold:

♠5 ♥KJ86 ♦KQ10 ♣AKJ87

The bidding has proceeded:

South	West	North	East
1 club	Pass	1 heart	Pass

What do you bid now?

A.—Four hearts. Even if partner has made a shaded response, you do not wish to play for less than game. Your hand is worth 20 points in support of hearts, and even if partner has only six points, or shaded down to five, you should insist upon game. Remember that a jump to three hearts would permit partner to pass if he had some shaded response.

Mosquito attacks sometimes have killed cattle, and they often cause weight loss and lower milk production.

CONSTIPATED?

"Honestly, I'm like a new person these days," smiles Bess Durham, Memphis, Tenn. "I used to suffer something awful from constipation. Couldn't seem to get relief from the laxatives I was using for half the day or so. And then I discovered Sal Hepatica. What a wonderful friend it's been. Why, if I wake up feeling logy and constipated, I take sparkling Sal Hepatica before breakfast, and get gentle, speedy relief usually within an hour!"

Yes, that's how to avoid "Laxative Lag"* with Sal Hepatica. Sal Hepatica gives quiet, speedy, gentle relief from constipation . . . sweetens sour stomach, too! So keep Sal Hepatica handy in your medicine chest.

Gentle, speedy

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VanDELLEN

Avoid Irritants To Delay Allergies

Can allergies be prevented? Probably not, but their appearance may be delayed if the most common irritants are avoided from infancy on. The allergic family ought to take heed because sensitivities are passed from one generation to another.

The less contact with these offenders, the longer it takes for asthma, hay fever, eczema, hives, or allergic rhinitis to develop.

House dust is a common offender, but it can be minimized by using rubber mattresses and pillows and avoiding rugs, draperies, and overstuffed chairs in the bedroom.

Molds and fungi are potential offenders and, to discourage mildew, keep the basement and entire house dry.

Cosmetics, particularly those containing orris root, often act as sensitizers. Certain foods, particularly wheat, corn, and eggs (especially raw egg) may lead to double trouble in the future.

This does not mean that these foods are to be eliminated entirely because they are excellent sources of energy and nutrition. Instead, they ought to be spaced in order to delay the production of antigens.

Since animal dander is a causative agent in allergy, becoming involved with horses, cats, and dogs is inadvisable.

The Worry Clinic

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE

Feeling of Unreality Eased by Activeness

Jessica M., 19, is a college coed.

"But, Dr. Crane, something must be wrong with me," she confessed.

"For I feel as if I am living in a dream world. Things often look unreal to me.

"The streets and buildings appear so strange at times that I consider myself lucky to find my way back home.

"Am I losing my mind? Even my parents are beginning to notice that I seem queer."

UNREALITY PHANTASY

No, Jessica is not losing her mind. Her complaint is very common among shy, sensitive young people. But it even appears in menopausal wives, too.

We psychologists call it the "Phantsy of Unreality." It denotes an escape mechanism and in this respect is a first cousin to other escape devices, such as vagabondage, alcoholism, the dope habit and even suicide.

So he subconsciously decides to paint external reality in a different hue, as it were, and thus disguise its unpleasant look.

FLIGHT MECHANISMS

So they rush around from one physician to another, hoping for sympathy and a word of encouragement from a fatherly type of doctor.

Those who take dope or rely constantly on sleeping pills, are also troubled by the same problem which faces Jessica, except they try to change themselves instead of the outside environment.

BE A FIGHTER

Jessica is really a fighter. Instead of meekly surrendering to her fear of fleeing from the situation via whisky, she resolutely is trying to do something about altering the external world.

Since she can't raze the buildings and rebuild them, brick by brick, she simply resorts to her imagination and thus makes them look different.

But that is not the ideal method to take. For she still isn't dealing with the core of her dilemma, which is lack of happy adjustment to the world in which she lives.

So unhappy people should get into gear and DO something. Don't sit still and dream or dread. Get into motion, right NOW.

Size up the next person you meet for a virtue and pay him a word of praise. Repeat the process.

Record Reviews

Inspired Reading Of Strauss by Izler Solomon

R. STRAUSS — Symphony for Wind Instruments in E-flat major. Izler Solomon conducting the MGM Orchestra. MGM.

This 12-inch popular album is filled with the music Les Brown has made popular over the years. Still one of the nation's top bandmen, Brown displays the well-founded style that has kept him in the forefront. A big record, but it's well worth hearing.

A Urania reissue in its Request Series, this recording offers the collector a top performance at a reduced price. It definitely is a worthy reading.

Kostelanetz' earlier "La Boheme" for orchestra was unusually effective. His orchestral interpretation of Bizet's "Carmen" is equally good. Many collectors who like selected scores from opera but who would not listen to a recording of the complete opera will find this to their liking.

Bored at Doctor's, She Sounds Alarm

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—A 5-year-old gets pretty bored in a quiet waiting room while daddy and mamma are seeing the doctor. This little girl wandered into the corridor where she saw a red lever on the wall.

Half an hour later, the firemen had traced the false alarm. Nurses, doctors and staff workers, who had scrambled to evacuation stations throughout the hospital, went back to their normal activities.

Railroader Isaac Tigrett, Builder of GM&O, Dies

JACKSON, Tenn., May 2 (AP)—Isaac Burton Tigrett, dean of America's railroad executives who built a "jerkwater" Tennessee line into the big Gulf, Mobile and Ohio, died unexpectedly today. He was 74.

He died at 6:10 p.m. (CST) of heart trouble.

I. B. Tigrett

A banker by choice, Tigrett, when offered one of his first railroad positions, said: "I don't know much about running a railroad but I'll be careful with the money."

It was to watch the money that in 1911 he was persuaded to become treasurer of a 40-mile Tennessee line that operated two second-hand locomotives between Jackson and Dyersburg.

The line was the forerunner of the GM & O that runs from the Great Lakes to the Gulf of Mexico and from Kansas' wheat fields to the old Confederate capital at Montgomery, Ala.

Tigrett was elevated from the presidency of the GM & O to chairman of the corporation several years ago, the title he held at his death.

PREACHER'S SON

The mild-mannered son of a Baptist preacher, he fashioned his railroad from five short lines and the financial wreckage of two others.

He built the GM&O with the enthusiasm of a child with a toy and never quit looking ahead.

He gave the South its first streamlined diesel. His was the first road in the nation to employ girl hostesses, all of them handpicked Ohio college graduates.

In 1946 his railroad had 3,000 miles of trackage, 12,680 employes and gross revenues of nearly 78 million dollars a year.

UNION UNIVERSITY

Ike Garrett was born at Friendship, Tenn., and attended Union University at Jackson where he spent five years "swapping a reasonable ability in athletics for a college diploma. I barely escaped the sixth year in completing the deal."

He was a banker until 1911 when he was named treasurer of the tiny Birmingham & Northwestern, the Jackson-Dyersburg line. In 1912 he became its president and in 1918 was named a member of the board of the Gulf, Mobile and Northern, which ran between Jackson and Mobile. In 1920 he became the line's president "because nobody else wanted the job."

Tigrett was married in 1904 to Mary Sue Kennedy, who survives. They had no children.

Peiping, Moscow Bonds Tightening, U.S. Finds

WASHINGTON, May 2 (AP)—The U.S. Information Agency said today a study shows that Communist China is being remade in the image of Soviet Russia and that despite some friction the ties between the two big Red nations are strengthening.

The agency published for public information and the guidance of its own writers and editors an article on Chinese-Russian relations by Richard L. Walker, assistant professor of Far Eastern history at Yale University. Walker dates his study from the death of Joseph Stalin on March 5, 1953, and concludes that this event, despite much speculation at the time, seems to have had no adverse effect on Russian-Chinese relations.

"A survey of events since Stalin's death," Walker stated, "shows a continuation of the trend initiated by Stalin and Mao (Chinese Red Leader Mao Tse-tung) to strengthen the bonds between China and the Soviet Union."

Among the bonds he listed, with his comments:

1. "The tremendous organization which runs Communist China. Not only is it patterned after the Soviet structure, but many of its highly placed leaders are Soviet trained. In fact, more than 57 per cent of the Central Committee of the (Chinese) Communist party is Moscow trained . . ."

2. Soviet assistance. "The Soviet Union is the only state which is willing to back the spread of Communist revolt in Asia, and the Chinese Communists look to the U.S.S.R. to help them build a power structure comparable to the Soviet Union's . . ."

Fulton County Grand Jury Presentments March-April 1954

HON. WALTER C. HENDRIX,
FULTON SUPERIOR COURT.

We, the Grand Jury for the March-April, 1954, term of Fulton Superior Court, hand you herewith the following presentments:

GENERAL

This Grand Jury has attempted in the time allowed to fully cover the many matters of government, the discharge of which are highly important to the citizens of this county, and we have found these affairs to be in capable hands.

ALMS HOUSE

We feel that the programs that are now being developed by the Welfare Department are sound in every way and should be expanded as rapidly as possible. We recognize the fact that from time to time efforts have been made and plans begun for the removal of the Alms House to some other location. However, we can see no real objection to the present location or justification for its removal. We believe that any expansion or improvements contemplated should be in connection with the present plans. We have examined the budget for the operation of this institution, and we feel that Mrs. Boynton is performing a remarkable task in the light of present day costs of goods and services, and the available funds provided.

CITY OF ATLANTA JAIL

It was found that the facilities of the City Jail, as a whole, appeared quite adequate and satisfactory, and probably were as good, if not better, than the average of any in the country. It was found that recently precautionary and permanent measures have been taken to prevent bodily harm, at the hands of fellow inmates, to prisoners confined in a drunken condition.

FULTON COUNTY JAIL

Fulton Tower, in its present dilapidated and crowded condition, is a disgrace to Fulton County and is in critical need of extensive remodeling. Wholly unsatisfactory quarters are provided for lunacy cases and for prisoners with contagious diseases. We strongly recommend that the County Commissioners immediately survey the situation and determine whether it is most favorable to attempt a renovation of this 50-year-old structure in lieu of erecting a new building. We realize that this will be time-consuming and in the interim, we recommend that personnel be provided to insure adequate supervision of prisoners and likewise do the difficult job of improving upon the general housekeeping of an obsolete building.

ADULT PROBATION DEPARTMENT

We find that this Department is performing a most important function, but is understaffed for the handling of its cases which have doubled in volume within the past year. There has been no increase of its probation officers or clerical help in the past three years, and this should be rectified without delay.

GEORGIA STATE TRAINING SCHOOL FOR GIRLS

We find an effort is being made to improve general conditions, but feel that the needed improvements to the present buildings can be made immediately and economically, pending completion of a new activities building and dormitories. We recommend that the present administrative staff be expanded to provide adequate physical, educational and recreational supervision. We thank Governor and Mrs. Herman Talmadge for their active and continuing interest in this most worthwhile institution.

JUVENILE COURT

HEALTH, SANITATION AND RECREATION

Grady Memorial Hospital and Steiner Clinic continue to serve the sick and indigent citizens of Fulton and DeKalb Counties with the highest degree of efficiency, more commendable because of the inadequate present facilities. This condition will be alleviated by the completion of the modern hospital that is now under construction, the result of wise planning by the Fulton-DeKalb Hospital Authority. Many of our citizens are probably not too well informed of the round-the-clock service to mankind that is rendered by Grady Memorial Hospital, and we have only the highest praise of its operation at the hands of able Superintendent Frank Wilson, the competent staff, internes and nurses, together with the local physicians who give so generously and untiringly of their time and skill.

This Grand Jury has been assisted by the sound opinions and wide experience of many persons who are devoted to the diagnosis, treatment and hospitalization of the dread disease of tuberculosis, and it is our conclusion that great forward strides continue to be made, both in its treatment and cure. Adequate hospital facilities, at least in so far as physical improvements are concerned, have been continuously provided by the State of Georgia since 1946 at Battey State Hospital, Rome, Georgia, for those unfortunate citizens. We have learned on good authority that this institution has its share of personnel problems, but it is our conclusion that these can be eliminated by the payment of salaries which are sufficient in amount to attract the required personnel. Further than this, it is our understanding that all of the physical properties at Battey Hospital which were made available to the State of Georgia by the Federal Government are not being put to use, and we consider that the wide prevalence of tuberculosis, most certainly warrants an increase of needed facilities and the State of Georgia should face up to this ever-growing responsibility which it has assumed for such people. That a patient does not prefer to leave family and friends behind, avail himself of this haven, and remain there until restored to health and be medically discharged is no fault of Grady Memorial Hospital, which is fully serving its needed purpose when it establishes a positive tubercular diagnosis. Grady Memorial Hospital should and does now temporarily treat persons who are acutely ill with tuberculosis, but when a contagious tubercular case has been made known to the files of the health authorities, city or county, it is and should be mandatory upon their offices to institute appropriate legal proceedings to order the patient's confinement at Battey State Hospital, under laws heretofore made and provided, if this persuasive means is found to be necessary. We are not unmindful that this is not a compassionate viewpoint, but there has to be a sane method for dealing with this serious and sorrowful problem.

Battle Hill Haven is, as its name implies, a refuge for the elderly and infirm. We are pleased and greatly impressed with the care and diet provided for the patients there, many of whom will continue indefinitely to be completely bedridden. We urge the citizenry to become more conscious and understanding of the problems of care for the aged, a condition that grows with every advance of medical science in prolonging our lives, and we likewise urge the governing officials of Fulton and DeKalb Counties to be generous in their contributions to this needed institution.

It should not be necessary for either this Grand Jury or its successor to again call attention to the polution of Proctor Creek, when the legal means for ending this deplorable condition are available to the authorities. The condition was brought about long ago and we find it difficult to understand why the health authorities continue to ignore the complaints of citizens affected thereby.

LAW ENFORCEMENT

The Atlanta Police Department is doing an excellent job of furnishing the City of Atlanta and Fulton County with adequate police protection. Morale and esprit de corps are maintained at a very high point under the able leadership of Chief Herbert Jenkins. From an administrative standpoint it appears that adequate stenographic help in this department would produce more complete documentary records and would result in a savings of the officers' time in presenting their cases both to the Grand Jury and subsequently to the trial jury.

This Grand Jury has been interested in the controversy over the handling of traffic cases in Fulton County and the City of Atlanta, and we have concluded that whereas there have been at least two committees of experts to survey the situation, followed by their recommendations, that it would be useless for any further study to be made. But we do urge our representatives in the General Assembly to work out a constitutional plan, in keeping with the objectives of the two committees who have made a thorough study of the matter. Members of this Grand Jury have sat upon the bench in the Municipal Court and observed it in operation; and we believe that the able judges thereof are leaning over backwards in an effort to bind over all cases that they consider should be tried in the state courts. Many of the cases might better have been settled in the Municipal Court, but this, we believe, is because the judges of the Municipal Court are sensistive to criticism. Therefore, we recommend that the criticism be stopped on all sides and that in the future no inferior court seek to police another.

It is further recommended that the Police Department file a formal complaint against all juvenile traffic violators, so that appropriate action may be taken by the Juvenile Court.

We strongly urge an ordinance prohibiting the purchase of small firearms without the prior issuance to the purchaser of a permit from the Police Department.

STATE PATROL

Due to the cut in all state departments, made by the Governor last year, the Patrol is below the minimum requirements of personnel. Under this restricted setup, we think it is remarkable that they are able to function as effectively as they do and can, only because of the long hours that patrolmen and officers are serving. Their statistical work in regard to accidents will be much more effective and of greater help to the department if they could secure a greater measure of cooperation from the city and county police departments, namely the filing of accident report copies with the State Patrol, made by the city and county officers. We urge that the Legislature and Governor provide additional funds during the coming year to thereby bring the Patrol up to its recommended minimum.

SHERIFF'S OFFICE

We find that this office functions efficiently under the able administration of A. B. ("Bud") Foster in its close cooperation with the courts of this county. We wish to publicly thank Mr. Walter Sentell for the many assistances which he has rendered to this Grand Jury.

INDETERMINATE SENTENCE LAW

One of the problems of law enforcement appears to be that the sentencing power of the courts is vested in the trial jury, and we therefore recommend legislation which would vest this sentencing power in the judges who may then fix the punishment with full knowledge of the defendant's previous criminal record.

MOTOR VEHICLE TITLE REGISTRATION LAW

We recommend the enactment of a law which will require the registration of title to all motor vehicles owned by citizens of the State of Georgia.

BOND REQUIREMENT FOR REPAIR CONTRACTORS

At the moment there is a measure before Atlanta's Aldermanic Board which will require contractors who are engaged in the repair of dwelling units to furnish a bond to the City of Atlanta, as authorized by Section 25-96 of the City's Charter. We urge that this be enacted as presently drafted.

SOLICITOR GENERAL, ATLANTA JUDICIAL CIRCUIT

We commend the Honorable Paul Webb upon the excellent manner in which he has organized his office, wisely delegating responsibilities to various department heads. We were very favorably impressed with the efficient, fair and cooperative way in which Mr. Webb and his able assistant, Mr. Charles Stewart, prepare and present the indictments for prosecution. We thank Mr. Webb and his staff, with particular praise for the stenographic assistance of Mrs. Lavinia Bragg, for their wholehearted cooperation that was afforded our members. We commend Mr. Webb for his foresight in establishing a section in his office to administer the Uniform Support of Dependents Law through his able assistant, Mrs. Amber Anderson.

PUBLIC WORKS

A very thorough inspection of the convict camps was made and the same were found to be in an excellent condition with all of the properties in good repair. The kitchens are clean, and the quality and preparation of food are excellent. The very high morale of all of the officials is reflected in the attitude of the prisoners and the cheerful way in which they handle their work. This condition was largely due to the fact that wherever possible, a prisoner is given constructive work to do in which he can have a pride of accomplishment. The very excellent program of road building and repairs is being carried on at a minimum of expense to the county, due to the fine cooperation between the County Engineer and the Warden of these convict camps.

PURCHASING DEPARTMENT CITY OF ATLANTA

We found that this department is being operated in a most efficient, fair and businesslike manner.

PURCHASING DEPARTMENT FULTON COUNTY

We find that this department is likewise being operated in an efficient manner, and we find that all land now being offered for sale by the county is being properly advertised and sold at public auction. The County Commissioners have, through their own initiative, put into practice a system of selling surplus real estate at public auction, which seems to be entirely fair to all concerned. However, it is possible that some future commission may abolish this system and under pressure from individuals be inclined to sell property without competitive bids, and without affording all interested parties an opportunity to bid. Therefore, this Grand Jury recommends that the essential elements of the present competitive system be embodied in a statute for presentation to the next session of the Legislature.

PHYSICAL PROPERTIES

A majority of Fulton County's public buildings were inspected, including the Court House, City Hall, Police Station, Alms House, Airport, dairy farms and prison camps. All were found to be in good condition and well maintained, with the exception of Fulton Tower. The county's paved roads are, in most cases, being well maintained, and at present the county has an extensive program under way for additional road paving. Most bridges are adequate and safe, but we recommend that all which are narrower than the road they connect be promptly widened.

EDUCATION

We can take pardonable pride in stating that the Atlanta School System and that of Fulton County, as to their capable administrations and the record of their graduates, are held in high esteem by the higher education authorities throughout the United States. A measure of credit should certainly be given to Mr. E. L. Floyd who does invaluable liaison work between our school systems and the colleges and universities. Our systems are headed by most able educators in the persons of Miss Ira Jarrell for the City, and Mr. Paul West, superintendent of Fulton County Schools. The latter is assisted by Mr. Norman Aaron, in charge of construction, and they are to be especially commended for the accelerated and practically completed Fulton County school building program. These schools were well built and at a cost which is 35.8% below the national average. Both school systems are faced with a phenomenal growth in attendance, making needful many new buildings for various locations, and we urge the support of the electorate for any bond issue which will undoubtedly be needed for explanation. We commend both systems upon their mutual cooperation in handling satisfactorily the problems that were theirs in following the Plan of Improvement.

RECORDS AND REVENUE

We readily observed that real efforts are being made to eliminate conflict and confusion in the assessment and collection of city and county taxes, and in this connection we recommend that legislation be enacted to require a property tax receipt or comparable evidence that taxes have been paid upon a motor vehicle before a license tag will be issued therefor.

PUBLICATION

We recommend to the Court that these Presentments be published in The Atlanta Constitution, Atlanta Journal and the Fulton County Daily Report not later than Monday, May 3, 1954.

This the 30th day of April, 1954.

Respectfully submitted,
